MITCHELL OPPOSES CANDIDACY OF MICHAEL

New French Cabinet Presented by Pierre Laval

FORMED WITH SUPPORT OF ANDRE TARDIEU

CONTAINS MEMBERS OF EX-PREMIER'S GOVERNMENT OVERTHROWN IN DECEMBER

TARDIEU'S INFLUENCE FORMING THE NEW REGIME IS OBVIOUS

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Jan. 27.—Senator Pierre Laval presented a new cabinet to President Gaston Doumergue today. It was formed with the support of ex-Premier Tardieu, and contains ten members of the Tardieu government which was overthrown in December.

Tardieu holds the post of minister of agriculture in the new ministry His influence in aiding Laval to form a cabinet was obvious, for Laval failed in the same task during the pre-Christmas crisis.

The personnel of the Laval cabinet follows:

Premier and minister of the interior —Pierre Laval.

Minister of:

Foreign affairs—Aristide Briand.
War—Andre Maginet.
Navy—Charles Dimont.
Air—Jacques Luis Dumesnil.
Public instruction—Mario Roustan.
Finance—Pierre Flandin.
Budget—Francois Pietri.
Public works—Maurice DeLigne.
Labor—Adolphe Landry.
Commerce—Louis Rollin.
Agriculture—Andre Tardieu.
Merchant marine—Louis De Chappedelaine.
Pensions—August Champetier De Ribes.
Public health—Camille Blaisot.
Posts and telephones—Charles Guernier.
Colonies—Paul Reyhaud.

Laval announced the completion of a cabinet today and then went to his home, worn out by 48 hours of almost unbroken political conferences. He was pleased at his success, but disappointed that the attitude of the radical socialists, who declined to support him, caused him to form a more conservative combination than he had intended.

Laval's majority in parliament will be based on the bulk of the center groups with the addition of the republican-democratic union headed by Louis Marin. Although the radical socialists declined to participate in the government, Laval hoped for the support of individual members of the group, as well as other independent elements of the left wing.

With Tardieu in the cabinet, Laval will try to capture as much as possible of the old majority controlled by Tardieu and Ramon Poincare. The latter is forced by illness to abstain from politics.

Edwin G. Buffington, City Attorney of Stillwater, Dies

Stillwater, Minn., Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Edwin G. Buffington, 72, city attorney of Stillwater for 20 years, died of heart disease at his home last night.

Buffington had complained of illness for several days but spent Monday at his office as usual.

He is survived by a son, Gilbert, of Duluth, and a brother, George, of Minneapolis.

GRANT WITHERS, SCREEN STAR, IS OPERATED ON

Chicago, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Grant Withers, screen star, underwent an emergency operation at Passavant hospital today.

Withers collapsed last night while going from the stage of a local theater to his dressing room. He has been appearing in vaudeville here this week.

The young star was rushed to the hospital, but delayed the operation for two hours while he telephoned his wife, Loretta Young, also a screen star, in Hollywood.

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, city health commissioner, performed the operation.

SEEK IN VAIN COMPROMISE ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Washington, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Senate and house conferees met unavailingly today in an effort to obtain a compromise on Muscle Shoals legislation, but the senate group rejected the house proposal to report formal disagreement and thus obtain a vote in both houses.

"We took no action," Rep. Reese, republican, Tennessee, told the United Press. "The house conferees unanimously suggested a formal report of disagreement, but the senate refused."

MARY PICKFORD'S FORMULA FOR REDUCING WEIGHT

Kansas City, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Mary Pickford's formula for reducing is simplicity itself.

"I just think of what weight I want to be," Miss Pickford said during a brief stop of her westbound train here. "When I decide on that weight strongly enough, it is no effort to maintain it."

Does her psychology work? At the height of her screen career she weighed 118 pounds.

"Now I weigh 102," she said in a tone intimating that the subject was closed with final proof.

CHICAGO POLICE IN SEARCH FOR WOUNDED GUNMAN

HE AND 4 COMPANIONS ROBBED WIEBOLOT DEPARTMENT STORE

BOOTY WAS $19,000; WOUND TWO MEN WHO TRY TO HALT ESCAPE

Chicago, Jan. 27.—(U.P.) — Hospitals and gangster hideaways were searched today for a wounded gunman who with four companions robbed the Wiebolot department store of $19,000 and wounded two men who tried to halt their escape.

Police centered their hunt on the wounded gunman, believing he would be forced to seek medical aid.

The robbery occurred just as an employe of the north side store started for a bank with the day's receipts. Two policemen had been assigned as his guards.

While dozens of customers scrambled behind counters, the bandits surrounded Frank Reisel, who carried the store's receipts, and his guards.

In the exchange of shots between police and bandits, Officer William Binder, 30, and Joseph Andrafco, 32, a bystander, were wounded.

As the bandits fled from the store, Binder who had fallen to the floor when he was shot, fired at the gunmen and wounded one.

Due to the many bystanders, the guards held their fire when the robbers appeared. Andrafco was shot by a bandit when he scrambled for a gun which had been knocked from a guard's hand by one of the raiders.

Unemployed in World Estimated at 20,000,000

Geneva, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Delegates to a conference on world unemployment today estimated the total number of unemployed in the world at 20,000,000. They blamed rationalization of industry and over-production as contributory to unemployment.

The report of the committee that "physiological unemployment" was likely to increase with "continued improvements in machinery, scientific management, and industrial concentration."

DAISY DE VOE IN PRISON; NOT LIBERATED ON BAIL

Los Angeles, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Daisy De Voe must sweep and mop in the women's quarters of the county jail for another week at least while her attorneys plan a fight for a reversal of her conviction of grand theft from Clara Bow.

Any chance that Miss De Voe would be liberated on bail dissolved when she decided not to ask for probation and instructed Attorney William A. Beirne to demand a new trial instead.

She could have been liberated pending action on her probation plea, but cannot be released until arguments on the appeal are made before Superior Judge William C. Doran next Monday.

Miss Bow's written plea for clemency for her former secretary will not be given to Judge Doran unless Miss De Voe requests probation later.

BUTLER CHECKED UP ON ALLEGED REMARKS ABOUT MUSSOLINI

Washington, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Major General Smedley D. Butler, U.S.M.C., has been called upon by the navy department to explain statements allegedly made by him in a speech at Philadelphia last week and said by the Italian ambassador to have been derogatory to Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Butler was not at his post at the Quantico marine barracks, of which he is commandant, today and it was believed probable that he was enroute to Washington to make personal explanation.

Mahatma Gandi, Indian Nationalist Leader, Released From Prison, Received With Acclaim

INSISTS ON SPINNING DURING TRAIN JOURNEY

IN TALK MAKES APPEAL FOR RELEASE OF 50,000 POLITICAL PRISONERS

WILL NOT CANCEL HIS CAMPAIGN OF CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE

Bombay, Jan. 27.—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, Indian nationalist leader, released from prison at Poona yesterday, was received with deep reverence and wild acclaim when he arrived here by train today.

The frail Indian, clad in the usual loin cloth, received garlands from many of his followers. A poor woman entered his railway carriage and prostrated herself at his feet. Gandhi helped lift her up, and signalled to the immense crowd of his admirers to allow him to leave the train.

Gandhi insisted on spinning during the latter part of his train journey. At various suburban stations outside Bombay, he smiled and spoke a few words to the crowds assembled to welcome him. He never ceased spinning, an act symbolic of the development of Indian national industry. The white strands passed nimbly through his fingers, and occasionally he gathered the broken ends where the frail thread had snapped.

In a talk with interviewers Gandhi made an appeal for the release of 50,000 political prisoners arrested during his civil disobedience campaign.

"I left jail with an open mind," Gandhi said, "but I strongly believe that every political prisoner connected with the nationalist movement should be freed immediately. None of the congress leaders (the all-India national congress) will be happy until this is done."

Gandhi told the United Press it would be impossible to cancel his campaign of civil disobedience until all prisoners arrested for satyagraha, or non-violent civil disobedience, had been released and ordinances invoked against congress activities were withdrawn.

"It is for the viceroy to withdraw his repressive policy," Gandhi said.

Gandhi said he could not discuss Prime Minister MacDonald's statement at the final session of the round table conference because he had not studied it fully. He did not wish to indicate at the moment what his attitude might be.

Gandhi was accompanied by Mrs. Naidu, a congress leader, who jokingly told her friends that she had brought Gandhi safely to Bombay, although he was "nearly broken to pieces" en route.

Moderate Indian elements welcomed Gandhi's statement regarding his "open mind," which they considered friendly to the round table conference.

Editor Brevli of the Bombay Chronicle and Jamnalal Bajaj, Bombay members of the working committee of the congress who have just been released from Nasik jail, warmly greeted Gandhi at the suburb of Dadar. The train then continued its triumphal progress to the central terminus, where a large crowd wildly cheered the Mahatma, or "great soul."

Bombay, Jan. 27.—One Moslem was killed and fifty persons were injured in fighting between Moslems and Hindus coincident with the release from jail of the Mahatma M. K. Gandhi.

Police fired on a mob which attacked a Hindu procession in the Rangpur district of Bengal. Moslems stoned the procession and attacked the police when they intervened.

Three hundred Moslems were arrested. Armed police reinforcements were stationed in the district.

CAPT. LUNDBERG, SWEDISH FLIER, IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Stockholf, Jan. 27. — (U.P.) — The famous Swedish flier, Capt. Einar Lundberg, was seriously injured today when his airplane crashed at Malmslaett airdrome.

Lundberg, who visited the United States last year, was outstanding in the rescue of the dirigible Italia party in the Arctic after the polar ship had crashed.

Stockholm, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—A report from Linkeoping today said Einar Lundberg, the noted Swedish flier, had died of injuries suffered in an airplane crash.

ROUTINE MATTERS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

CHAIN STORE TAXATION, IMMIGRATION REDUCTION, ETC., IN BACKGROUND

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Chain store taxation, immigration reduction and the proposed state referendum on prohibition remained in the background today as both houses of the state legislature centered their attention on routine matters.

Among the numerous bills introduced in the house late yesterday was one by Rep. H. P. Meyers of St. Paul providing for licensing chain stores at $100 each a year. The license bureau would be maintained by the secretary of state.

A hearing on the state prohibition referendum bill was postponed by the temperance committee until next Monday, but later in the session the house voted to have printed and distributed 1,000 copies of the bill instead of 500.

Rep. R. W. Hitchcock of Hibbing obtained a delay on a vote on a resolution proposing to memorialize congress to reduce the annual immigration quotas to five per cent. He said that the bill merited further consideration before the vote.

Two Laborers Killed in German Communist Riot

Hamburg, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Two laborers were killed, two policemen were wounded by gun fire, and numerous persons were injured during an attempt by communists to disrupt a fascist meeting at Geesthacht, near Hamburg, last night. Nineteen persons were arrested.

TERMED 'YOUTHFUL SLAVE OF FEMININE SVENGALI' MISTRESS

"LOCKED HIM IN CLOSET OF HER BEDROOM, KEPT HIM THERE FIVE MONTHS"

"FINALLY CHARMED HIM INTO SLAYING HER HUSBAND"

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—John Beier, termed by his attorneys "the youthful slave of a feminine Svengali" who locked him into the closet of her bedroom, kept him there for five months and finally charmed him into slaying her husband, has been restored to full civil rights.

The emancipation was the first official act of clemency of Gov. Phillip F. LaFollette, Wisconsin's 33-year-old chief executive who acted upon revelations that caused Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, LaFollette's predecessor, to commute Beier's life sentence.

Beier was convicted of killing Nicholas Biesen, LaCrosse farmer, but it was not until after he entered prison that the stranger-than-fiction story—so termed by Gov. Zimmerman—of his enslavement to Mrs. Biesen was brought out. The slayer served nine years before being pardoned by Zimmerman in 1929.

Mrs. Biesen obtained a hold on Beier while he was in his "teens," and when he tried to escape, locked him in a bedroom closet. There, in a cramped space, three by five and one-half feet, she kept him for five months, her husband unsuspecting.

Beier overheard Biesen quarreling with his wife over her coolness, and when the farmer threatened to kill her he leaped from the closet and shot Biesen with a revolver. Then he told Gov. Zimmerman, Mrs. Biesen handed him a shotgun, told him to fire again, and he did.

Mrs. Biesen tied a string to the shotgun trigger and forged a note to make it appear her husband had committed suicide and his death was not questioned until the Biesen log-cabin home was destroyed by fire and Beier's revolver found.

Six Men, One Woman Charged with Slaying of Gerald E. Buckley

Detroit, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Six men and one woman were charged with the slaying of Gerald E. Buckley, radio commentator, in a blanket indictment returned by the special grand jury today.

The woman and two of the men were unnamed, appearing only on the indictment as "Mary Roe, John Doe and Richard Roe."

The four men named are Angelo Livecchi, Ted Pizzino of New York; Joe Bommarito, former St. Louis gangster, and Pete Licavoli, head of a river rum running gang.

All except Licavoli are being held. The names of 82 witnesses were indorsed on the charges.

LABOR REGIME OF ENGLAND IN NEW LEASE OF LIFE

London, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—An agreement between Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and David Lloyd George, liberal leader, is expected to give the labor government a further lease on its doubtful existence, the Daily Mail said today.

It is understood that in return for liberal support, the government henceforth will accept the liberal idea for comprehensive schemes of national development, financed by loans, to relieve unemployment. Such a move might overcome the objection of the left wing laborites headed by Sir Oswald Mosley who favor the liberal unemployment solution schemes.

ASKS BUDGET INCREASE, STATE INSTITUTIONS

TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS, CLOSE TO 2 MILLION DOLLARS WILL BE REQUIRED

STATE SCHOOLS, AND ASYLUMS, PENAL ESTABLISHMENTS, HOSPITALS OVERCROWDED

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Chairman C. J. Swendsen of the state board of parole went before the senate and house appropriation committees today to ask for a budget increase of $1,959,290 to improve conditions in state institutions.

Overcrowded conditions in state schools, asylums, penal establishments and hospitals make necessary the budget increase, Swendsen said. The bulk of the fund increase would be used, he said, for new buildings to relieve congestion.

"Under present conditions," Swendsen said, "there are about 15,500 unfortunates housed in buildings having a normal capacity of 13,500. If the budget increase is granted, our expenditures will be $12,145,195."

In an appearance before the house appropriations committee Monday, Swendsen asked for $150,000 to improve the main building of the state asylum, which he said is "a fire-trap which endangers the lives of 100 persons and is a disgrace to the state."

Among the other expenditures asked by Swendsen were:

$20,000 for two cottages at the colony for epileptics, Cambridge.

$8,000 for summer school at Faribault school for blind.

$80,000 for gymnasium and $60,000 for remodeling the power house at Faribault school for deaf.

$40,000 for state public school of Owatonna.

$8,000 for work shop at Sauk Center school for girls.

$166,000 for new cell block and $65,000 for completing intermediate building at St. Cloud reformatory.

$92,500 for addition to hospital and addition to boundary at Stillwater state prison.

$100,000 for addition to infirmary at Ah-Gwah-Ching sanitarium for consumptives.

$91,800 for nurses' home at St. Paul hospital for crippled children.

Governor Lehman of New York, Governor Wilbur Cross of Connecticut, Charles Reitell (representing Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania) and Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts. The seventh State's representative at the conference, S. P. Busch, representing Governor White of Ohio, is not in this group photograph.

ATTORNEY GENERAL QUESTIONS HIS QUALIFICATIONS

INVITES SENATOR SCHALL AND OTHER ENDORSERS TO PRESENT OTHER NAMES

NOT IN RECENT YEARS HAS A PATRONAGE DISPUTE BEEN HANDLED THIS WAY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 27.—Braving the threat of a party dispute of major proportions, Attorney General Mitchell today informed the republican congressional delegation from Minnesota that its candidate could not be appointed to the new Minnesota federal judgeship.

At the same time, Mitchell issued a 1,000-word statement explaining his opposition to the candicdcy of Ernest Michael, Minneapolis attorney and center of an extended controversy. He questioned Michael's qualifications and invited Michael's endorsers — Senator Schall and all republican members of the state's house delegation to present other names for consideration.

The United Press was informed today at the office of Senator Schall, republican, Minnesota, that the senator would not withdraw his recommendations for appointment of Michael.

Not in recent years has a patronage dispute been handled in the manner Mitchell employed. For several months Schall has been active in Michael's behalf, visiting the White House frequently. Members of the house delegation also called upon the president.

While no open threats were made, it was the generally accepted view that unless the administration chose Michael, it would have a fight on its hands to get anyone else confirmed in the senate, and might also encounter open warfare with a large wing of the party in Minnesota when the time comes to choose delegates to the 1932 republican national convention.

Despite the pressure brought to bear upon him, however, the attorney general, whose home is in St. Paul, has refused silently up to this time, to go along with the organization. He is understood to have had the backing in Mr. Hoover's office of two secretarial advisers, also from the Twin Cities.

The attorney general did not mention Michael by name in his statement, but left no doubt as to his recommendations to Mr. Hoover about the appointment.

"Our file on protests against this nomination is more impressive than in any other case before the department for years past," Mitchell said. "My refusal to recommend the senator's candidate is not merely a matter of personal judgment. From lawyers and judges all over the state have come vigorous protests against the appointment.

"No man has a right to aspire to appointment to the federal bench whose professional activities have been conducted in disregard of those standards of professional conduct which right-thinking lawyers have traditionally tried to maintain.

"It has been stated in some quarters that some one man is my choice for this post. That statement is without any foundation. It also has been suggested that I desire to bring abou appointment of a democrat. On the contrary, I have said repeatedly that under the conditions I think a republican should be appointed.

"I have been told I might help President Hoover politically in Minnesota if I should recommend this appointment. President Hoover has raised a standard of judicial appointment in which political 'usefulness' does not enter. He has refused repeatedly to be bent by such motives. I am sure the people of Minnesota approve his attitude."

U. S. STEEL FIRMS UP FRACTIONALLY

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

New York, Jan. 27.—United States Steel firmed up fractionally on the stock market today and the whole list presented a better tone in fairly active trading.

Steel opened at 142⅝ and then rose to 142¾ up ¼. Fractional advances were noted in Vanadium, Radio, American Smelting, American & Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, Alleghany Corporation, International Telephone, Woolworth, Standard of New Jersey, Fox Film A, and Pennsylvania railroad.

American Can met pressure, declining nearly a point to 112½ on 1,200 shares. National Biscuit receeded fractionally and small losses were noted in Auburn, Electric Power & Light, Erie, Warner Brothers Pictures, New York Central and General Electric.

POWER BOAT SEIZED BY COAST GUARD

Newport, R. I., Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—The power boat Overland, known as the Phantom, was seized by Captain Ellsworth Latham and a crew from Brenton Point coast guard station at Seaconnett dock today.

ROUTINE MATTERS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

CHAIN STORE TAXATION, IMMIGRATION REDUCTION, ETC., IN BACKGROUND

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Chain store taxation, immigration reduction and the proposed state referendum on prohibition remained in the background today as both houses of the state legislature centered their attention on routine matters.

Among the numerous bills introduced in the house late yesterday was one by Rep. H. P. Meyers of St. Paul providing for licensing chain stores at $100 each a year. The license bureau would be maintained by the secretary of state.

A hearing on the state prohibition referendum bill was postponed by the temperance committee until next Monday, but later in the session the house voted to have printed and distributed 1,000 copies of the bill instead of 500.

Rep. R. W. Hitchcock of Hibbing obtained a delay on a vote on a resolution proposing to memorialize congress to reduce the annual immigration quotas to five per cent. He said that the bill merited further consideration before the vote.

Two Laborers Killed in German Communist Riot

Hamburg, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Two laborers were killed, two policemen were wounded by gun fire, and numerous persons were injured during an attempt by communists to disrupt a fascist meeting at Geesthacht, near Hamburg, last night. Nineteen persons were arrested.

TERMED 'YOUTHFUL SLAVE OF FEMININE SVENGALI' MISTRESS

"LOCKED HIM IN CLOSET OF HER BEDROOM, KEPT HIM THERE FIVE MONTHS"

"FINALLY CHARMED HIM INTO SLAYING HER HUSBAND"

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—John Beier, termed by his attorneys "the youthful slave of a feminine Svengali" who locked him into the closet of her bedroom, kept him there for five months and finally charmed him into slaying her husband, has been restored to full civil rights.

The emancipation was the first official act of clemency of Gov. Phillip F. LaFollette, Wisconsin's 33-year-old chief executive who acted upon revelations that caused Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, LaFollette's predecessor, to commute Beier's life sentence.

Beier was convicted of killing Nicholas Biesen, LaCrosse farmer, but it was not until after he entered prison that the stranger-than-fiction story—so termed by Gov. Zimmerman—of his enslavement to Mrs. Biesen was brought out. The slayer served nine years before being pardoned by Zimmerman in 1929.

Mrs. Biesen obtained a hold on Beier while he was in his "teens," and when he tried to escape, locked him in a bedroom closet. There, in a cramped space, three by five and one-half feet, she kept him for five months, her husband unsuspecting.

Beier overheard Biesen quarreling with his wife over her coolness, and when the farmer threatened to kill her he leaped from the closet and shot Biesen with a revolver. Then he told Gov. Zimmerman, Mrs. Biesen handed him a shotgun, told him to fire again, and he did.

Mrs. Biesen tied a string to the shotgun trigger and forged a note to make it appear her husband had committed suicide and his death was not questioned until the Biesen log-cabin home was destroyed by fire and Beier's revolver found.

Six Men, One Woman Charged with Slaying of Gerald E. Buckley

Detroit, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Six men and one woman were charged with the slaying of Gerald E. Buckley, radio commentator, in a blanket indictment returned by the special grand jury today.

The woman and two of the men were unnamed, appearing only on the indictment as "Mary Roe, John Doe and Richard Roe."

The four men named are Angelo Livecchi, Ted Pizzino of New York; Joe Bommarito, former St. Louis gangster, and Pete Licavoli, head of a river rum running gang.

All except Licavoli are being held. The names of 82 witnesses were indorsed on the charges.

LABOR REGIME OF ENGLAND IN NEW LEASE OF LIFE

London, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—An agreement between Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and David Lloyd George, liberal leader, is expected to give the labor government a further lease on its doubtful existence, the Daily Mail said today.

It is understood that in return for liberal support, the government henceforth will accept the liberal idea for comprehensive schemes of national development, financed by loans, to relieve unemployment. Such a move might overcome the objection of the left wing laborites headed by Sir Oswald Mosley who favor the liberal unemployment solution schemes.

ASKS BUDGET INCREASE, STATE INSTITUTIONS

TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS, CLOSE TO 2 MILLION DOLLARS WILL BE REQUIRED

STATE SCHOOLS, AND ASYLUMS, PENAL ESTABLISHMENTS, HOSPITALS OVERCROWDED

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Chairman C. J. Swendsen of the state board of parole went before the senate and house appropriation committees today to ask for a budget increase of $1,959,290 to improve conditions in state institutions.

Overcrowded conditions in state schools, asylums, penal establishments and hospitals make necessary the budget increase, Swendsen said. The bulk of the fund increase would be used, he said, for new buildings to relieve congestion.

"Under present conditions," Swendsen said, "there are about 15,500 unfortunates housed in buildings having a normal capacity of 13,500. If the budget increase is granted, our expenditures will be $12,145,195."

In an appearance before the house appropriations committee Monday, Swendsen asked for $150,000 to improve the main building of the state asylum, which he said is "a fire-trap which endangers the lives of 100 persons and is a disgrace to the state."

Among the other expenditures asked by Swendsen were:

$20,000 for two cottages at the colony for epileptics, Cambridge.

$8,000 for summer school at Faribault school for blind.

$80,000 for gymnasium and $60,000 for remodeling the power house at Faribault school for deaf.

$40,000 for state public school of Owatonna.

$8,000 for work shop at Sauk Center school for girls.

$166,000 for new cell block and $65,000 for completing intermediate building at St. Cloud reformatory.

$92,500 for addition to hospital and addition to boundary at Stillwater state prison.

$100,000 for addition to infirmary at Ah-Gwah-Ching sanitarium for consumptives.

$91,800 for nurses' home at St. Paul hospital for crippled children.

ATTORNEY GENERAL QUESTIONS HIS QUALIFICATIONS

INVITES SENATOR SCHALL AND OTHER ENDORSERS TO PRESENT OTHER NAMES

NOT IN RECENT YEARS HAS A PATRONAGE DISPUTE BEEN HANDLED THIS WAY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 27.—Braving the threat of a party dispute of major proportions, Attorney General Mitchell today informed the republican congressional delegation from Minnesota that its candidate could not be appointed to the new Minnesota federal judgeship.

At the same time, Mitchell issued a 1,000-word statement explaining his opposition to the candicdcy of Ernest Michael, Minneapolis attorney and center of an extended controversy. He questioned Michael's qualifications and invited Michael's endorsers — Senator Schall and all republican members of the state's house delegation to present other names for consideration.

The United Press was informed today at the office of Senator Schall, republican, Minnesota, that the senator would not withdraw his recommendations for appointment of Michael.

Not in recent years has a patronage dispute been handled in the manner Mitchell employed. For several months Schall has been active in Michael's behalf, visiting the White House frequently. Members of the house delegation also called upon the president.

While no open threats were made, it was the generally accepted view that unless the administration chose Michael, it would have a fight on its hands to get anyone else confirmed in the senate, and might also encounter open warfare with a large wing of the party in Minnesota when the time comes to choose delegates to the 1932 republican national convention.

Despite the pressure brought to bear upon him, however, the attorney general, whose home is in St. Paul, has refused silently up to this time, to go along with the organization. He is understood to have had the backing in Mr. Hoover's office of two secretarial advisers, also from the Twin Cities.

The attorney general did not mention Michael by name in his statement, but left no doubt as to his recommendations to Mr. Hoover about the appointment.

"Our file on protests against this nomination is more impressive than in any other case before the department for years past," Mitchell said. "My refusal to recommend the senator's candidate is not merely a matter of personal judgment. From lawyers and judges all over the state have come vigorous protests against the appointment.

"No man has a right to aspire to appointment to the federal bench whose professional activities have been conducted in disregard of those standards of professional conduct which right-thinking lawyers have traditionally tried to maintain.

"It has been stated in some quarters that some one man is my choice for this post. That statement is without any foundation. It also has been suggested that I desire to bring abou appointment of a democrat. On the contrary, I have said repeatedly that under the conditions I think a republican should be appointed.

"I have been told I might help President Hoover politically in Minnesota if I should recommend this appointment. President Hoover has raised a standard of judicial appointment in which political 'usefulness' does not enter. He has refused repeatedly to be bent by such motives. I am sure the people of Minnesota approve his attitude."

U. S. STEEL FIRMS UP FRACTIONALLY

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

New York, Jan. 27.—United States Steel firmed up fractionally on the stock market today and the whole list presented a better tone in fairly active trading.

Steel opened at 142⅝ and then rose to 142¾ up ¼. Fractional advances were noted in Vanadium, Radio, American Smelting, American & Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, Alleghany Corporation, International Telephone, Woolworth, Standard of New Jersey, Fox Film A, and Pennsylvania railroad.

American Can met pressure, declining nearly a point to 112½ on 1,200 shares. National Biscuit receeded fractionally and small losses were noted in Auburn, Electric Power & Light, Erie, Warner Brothers Pictures, New York Central and General Electric.

Baptist Aid Changes Meeting Date

Wishing to kep Thursday open because of dedicatory services at the Episcopal church, the ladies aid of the First Baptist church will meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon instead of Thursday as was announced at the Sunday services.

The entertaining hostesses are Mrs. L. Schaefer and Mrs. H. Olson. This is an important meeting and all members are urged to be present.

Hikers' Club

The Brainerd Hikers' club will meet tomorrow night at the court house at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

After the hike a short business session will be held, so bring your lunch, cup, dime and suggestions for future hikes, skating parties or ski hikes, depending upon the weather.

Everyone is welcome to come.

St. Mary's Guild

The St. Mary's Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church will meet in the church basement Wednesday evening Mrs. William H. Irwin being the hostess.

The business session will commence promptly at 8 o'clock, and all members are urged to be present as important matters are to be taken up.

Presbyterian Church Circle No. 1

Circle No. 1 of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. E. G. Roth, 226 Chippewa street, Wednesday, January 28.

Episcopal Men's Club

The Men's club of St. Paul's Episcopal church met last evening at the home of R. M. Johnson. There was a good attendance at the meeting and an interesting session was held.

4,500 Men Soon to Be Employed on Rivers and Harbors Projects

Washington, Jan. 27.—(UP)—A total of 4,500 men will be employed by March 1 on rivers and harbors projects authorized to aid unemployment, Major General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, testified today before the house appropriations committee.

Brown, who was called in connection with consideration of the $25,000,000 Red Cross relief fund included by the senate in the interior department appropriation bill, said the bulk of work under the recent $22,500,000 emergency rivers and harbors appropriation is now under contract and all work will be commenced by April 1.

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

January 27, 1906

Harry Patek expects to return to Brainerd in a short time and become associated with his father C. M. Patek in business.

W. H. Cleary returned last night from Aitkin where he had been on business.

Announcement has been made that the Northern Pacific railway will build 1,000 new freight cars this season at their shops at Brainerd. There is a great demand for new rolling stock and the demand for new equipment must be met at once. For the last few weeks the shops have been active and several hundred more men have been hired so that the output of the shops may be increased.

Cole & McDonald who have had the greater number of contracts for drilling on the Cuyuna range have started three new drills within the past week or so on Sections 8, 13, and 22 which is a short distance from Brainerd. Representatives of the United States Steel company were in the city yesterday closing up several important deals which were launched a short time ago.

Four young gentlemen of East Brainerd, Messrs. William Barron, Jr., Joe Midgley, William and Alvin Arnold entertained the East Brainerd "500" club last night at their bachelor apartments.

Prof. Burral of Deerwood was in the city today on business.

Mrs. M. J. Reilly and daughter returned from Staples yesterday afternoon.

Henry Spalding and son H. W. Spalding have gone to Hubert for a few days.

Chamber Meets Wednesday

The Chamber of Commerce at its meeting tomorrow evening will have the new officers for the year making their first appearance.

Change Date Choir Practice

On account of the dedication of the Episcopal church on Thursday evening, the choir of the Methodist church will practice Wednesday evening instead of Thursday evening with Fred Lind, 318 North Seventh street. Prayer meeting and Bible study will also be held on Wednesday evening instead of Thursday, in parlor A of the church.

Stopping Rooster's Crowing

Nothing is entirely efficacious to stop the crowing of roosters. A good plan is to place the rooster's roost so high that when he stretches up to crow he will strike his head gently on the roof. This will stop his crowing.

Three are Hostesses at Shower for Late Bride, Mrs. Walter Fredstrom

Monday evening Mrs. Clifford Welsh, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Fredstrom and Mrs. Al Fredstrom, were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Mrs. Walter Fredstrom, a late bride.

The shower was given at the home of Mrs. Welsh, 1302½ Oak street.

Table decorations were delicate streamers from the chandelier showering a rose petaled parasol. Twenty-five guests were present and a dainty luncheon was served.

Liked the Poetry

In a letter to the Brainerd Dispatch, J. F. Smart of Myrtle Tree Farm, near Silverhill, Alabama, writes "we noted O. M's verses on 'The Homesteader' in a recent issue. Not so bad, after all. He gets the double rhyme in the middle of the line quite nicely."

Zion Evangelical Loyalty Class

The Loyalty class of the Zion Evangelical church will meet at the home of Christ Dunneman, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Friends are welcome. Each member please bring a picture of younger days.

First Baptist Midweek Services

The midweek service of the First Baptist church will be conducted in the parlor of the church on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, instead of Thursday evening.

Choir practice will be conducted the same evening in the auditorium of the church at 8:30 o'clock.

This change is made on account of the dedication of the new building of St. Paul's Episcopal church on Thursday evening.

Navy Enlistments Resumed

An order has recently been received from the Bureau of Navigation stating that first enlistments are now open to men with previous service, but not under continuous service.

In order to maintain the status of continued service in the Navy an enlisted man who has served during a given period and desires to re-enlist, must do so within three months of the expiration of his term.

For the past five months the recruiting service have not been enlisting anyone with broken service, the above order will take effect February 1, 1931. Anyone in this district desiring further information are requested to communicate with Raymond E. Kane, naval recruiting officer, Brainerd, Minn.

"REMEMBER" SAYS THE ORATOR

There Is No Question About It!

Reductions in effect for this great event bring you the most amazing furniture values of a life time! You know that furniture prices have been hammered down during the last year to a point below which it is absolutely impossible for them to go, in fact, there are already many indications that the next movement of prices will be upward and that this will come sooner than expected! Think what it means, therefore, to be able te profit NOW BY SUBSTANTIAL REDUCTIONS from regular prices that were already EXTREMELY LOW.

Living Room Suites

Frankly, we do not believe that you will ever again have an equal opportunity to secure a beautiful new living room suite of real style and quality at a price anywhere near as low as now in effect! Even a confirmed miser knows that there is a time when it is better to spend money than to keep it! This is a time when it is the best possible thrift to invest in furniture, and here are the values that are typical of the savings to be had here.

What Values Really Mean in Furniture

Furniture that has gone out of style depreciate in value. You can buy them at low prices. Furniture that never had good style are of small value even when they are new. Low prices alone doesn't necessarily mean value, it may mean old style, poor style, cheap workmanship or questionable quality. Value in this store means good new styles, good material and workmanship, at just as low a price as they can be obtained. The Levin living room, Berkey & Gay bedroom and dining room and Phoenix occasional furniture we sell, have those qualities. Our prices for them make them good values in the real meaning of the word.

Calls Wastage of Brain Power a Social Tragedy

ONE of the greatest losses incurred by present day society is due to the failure of very large numbers of young people of superior mental capacity to attend college or university, in the opinion of President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota, according to "Minnesota Chats," published by the University of Minnesota for the parents of students.

In a recent statement President Coffman pointed out that 1,600 of the most intelligent high school graduates in Minnesota two years ago said there was no chance of their going to college.

Financial disability is the most common obstacle, studies have shown. One result is that while many of average mental capacity go to college, many with superior mental endowments never have an opportunity to enjoy higher education.

If this group of young people with special mental endowments receives proper training the potential contributions of its members to the welfare of the state will be enormous, and the loss to the state equally enormous if such superior material fails to obtain training, Dr. Coffman believes.

"It has long seemed to us at the University of Minnesota," he writes, "that here is a field to which larger contributions of private fortunes might be made. It is a field to which local service clubs might devote more attention. Municipalities might even find it possible to establish a limited number of scholarships for young men and young women of talent.

"When one bears in mind that each year there are in the state of Minnesota approximately 1,600 high school graduates of high college ability who do not plan to attend any college or university, and that many of these most promising students are barred from further study by lack of funds or the need of social stimulation which comes from local encouragement and public recognition, we must recognize that failure to solve this problem means not only an economic loss but a permanent intellectual and social wastage.

"In making this plea, that in the future the people of the state shall give more encouragement to capable students to attend college," President Coffman continued ,"I do not for a moment mean to imply that the university shall develop any false notions of aristocracy or that those of less talent shall be denied the privilege of receiving the training which they need and from which they can profit. The educational program of a progressive university will not only be in keeping with the spirit of the times but will be so modified as to conform to the objectives and the abilities of the various types of mind represented by the student body."

World to Spend Three Billion on 1931 Roads

ONE hundred and ten nations and political sub-divisions of the world will spend at least $3,000,000,000 on roads and road construction during 1931, according to an estimate by the Automotive Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. World-wide investigations disclose the fact that in the majority of the countries of the world road building has been stimulated as a measure of unemployment relief, and as a consequence, world highway budgets were larger in 1930 than in 1929, and are expected, in 1931, to be larger than ever before.

That history repeats itself in this respect, at least, is attested to by recent findings in India, Asia and other places where ancient roads have come to light built many years ago by sovereigns to provide employment for their people. Many of these ancient roads are in use today, indicating the high quality of construction.

It is gratifying to note that the United States leads the parade of highway construction, with expenditures which, according to the best estimates, will reach $2,000,000,000 during the year.

Though not in as large quantities, many other countries are proportionately increasing their highway budgets to relieve unemployment. From Japan comes the news of a special and additional 40,000,000 yen ($20,000,000) for 1931 roads; in Canada expenditures are expected to be increased by about $20,000,000. Mexico is pushing its great trunk highway system to give Mexico City modern highway connection with Vera Cruz on the Gulf and Laredo and the United States on the North. Argentina in the closing days of 1930 issued a decree calling for bids for the construction of some 800 miles of paved highways with an outlay estimated at $200,000,000 or more. Algeria, the Sudan, Czecho-Slovakia and Greece, all have increased their 1930 budgets.

Jugo-Slavia has a $13,000,000 project on foot for approximately 500 miles. Hungary has an ambitious program already under way and Bulgaria has doubled its highway budget for the previous year. Italy has a vast Public Works program under way employing close to 60,000 men for highway construction. Belgium, Austria and the United Kingdom all have additional plans for the year.

In the Philippines $6,000,000 are to be used for highway construction for the relief of unemployment, and in Porto Rico one million dollars will be spent on roads.

REP. JOHN J. MCNULTY of Minneapolis proposes introducing a bill limiting gasoline filling stations, one for every 500 population. According to that ratio Brainerd would have 20 stations instead of the present high number. At the last council meeting 23 stations with 57 pumps renewed licenses at $25 per pump. In July another group renews licenses. The McNulty bill, if passed, would reduce city license revenue here.

A MACHINE that records your eye movements as you read, making a photographic chart of the length of time spent on each word, the times when you linger over a word, and the instances in which the reader has to go back over a line in order to grasp its meaning has been developed and put in use by the department of psychology at the University of Minnesota.

AUTOMATIC paroles may be made through a system devised by Professor George B. Vold of the University of Minnesota. He has found by laborious examination that parole violations among prisoners in Minnesota averaged 24 per cent.

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

Ken Swears Vengeance On Spy

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"HE KNOWS much, my cousin Lee. What this Cyril Underhill does. Who calls him—" she suddenly checked herself. Slanted a sidewise look at the other girl. Made a little gesture with her hands.

"Well, I have told you because I like you a lot, Miss Carroll. But you will say nothing, of course."

Ardeth was silent, turning over in her mind the information she had just received. She did not doubt the truth of Ah Ling's statement for a moment. She knew the network of relationship which bound together San Francisco's Chinese. She knew the cleverness of these excellent servants who could hear and see all and say nothing—at least to no white person.

Chinatown could ring with the affairs of Pacific avenue, but Pacific avenue would never guess it. It was Ah Ling's personal loyalty alone which had allowed even this much to seep out to her.

The Spy

So Cyril Underhill was The Spy. Her face burned as she remembered the days he had been down here, petted and patronized by the very women he was secretly stabbing in the back.

She remembered him standing, dark and elegant by the Coramandal screen, reading excerpts from the scandalous articles he had secretly written, encouraged by malicious feminine laughter.

Did Cecile know he was The Spy? It would be like her to appreciate the spiteful humor of thus being behind the scenes. Or was Cecile deceived and worked as well? Was this man of no loyalties leading her on, too?

But Ah Ling was right! Ardeth thought with a sudden maddening sense of impotence. Her hands were tied with her knowledge. If she told this to Ken . . . her heart leaped with fright, Ken would kill the sneak. It would mean a scandal which would bring the world down about their ears.

To expose Cyril Underhill would release scandals whose ramifications led far back. An upheaval which would shake a city to its social depths. . .

No. Not yet. Wait! and in the meantime do nothing which could bring this scandal-monger down upon her defenseless head.

That night, when Ah Ling had left, Ardeth went to the little alley in the rear of the shop.

The quick Winter night had fallen. It was black and cold in here. Tall loft buildings frowned down on two sides. The end of the blind alley was formed by her own little shop.

Ardeth had left the night lamp burning in the rear room and now she pressed her face to the window pane where the paint had worn thin.

Objects in the room were plainly visible through the pink light. Anyone in there would be recognizable to one watching from the alley.

Just so had Cyril Underhill stood peering in, that night Ken had come down here, broken and lonely. He had watched the impassioned scene. He had seen Ken leave in the early morning hours. . .

The girl closed her eyes for a moment and shivered.

The thought was like a snake coiled in her path. She repainted the window panes. She hung heavy curtains before it and drew them close at night. But she could not draw a curtain over that disquieting knowledge in her own mind.

The venomous attack left her painfully self-conscious. She dreaded attending to the store the next day. She flushed whenever a customer glanced at her. Something of defiant courage gone from her. She tried to gain it back by lashing herself with self-scorn.

A Coward's Sword

She had told Tom that she was unafraid. Had told that to Mary, and here she was, in panic at the first thrust of a coward's sword.

She looked at her own white reflection in the mirror with disdainful eyes. That was right—let a lie make her look guilty! Was that the sort of thing her pride was fashioned of? Then she deserves to suffer! Whipping up her courage with contempt — hot thought seething behind a cold pride. Struggling back to a measure of self control.

At four, the next afternoon, the phone rang. She found herself mute and trembling at the sound of Ken's voice.

"Ardeth—have you seen this week's Spy? That thing—about us?"

Without waiting for her reply he went on in hot rage, "God, what a rotten thing! If I could get my hands on that beast . . . whoever it is? Don't you care sweetheart! Everyone who knows you will know it's just another of the dirty lies. I'm going down to the printer . I'll find out who that sneak is and he'll print a retraction on the front page or I'll twist his head off!"

She had suddenly galvanized into life. She was clinging to the phone saying in a frantic voice, "No! No, Ken! Listen to me—you musn't do that! Don't you see—it would only make more talk. It would get in the daily papers—it would be dreadful! Oh, don't you see?"

"Ardeth, do you know who The Spy is?" Ken's tone was grim.

She shook her head violently, as though he could see her. Shook it until the hair flapped against her face.

"No! Of course not! But you mustn't try to find out! Can't you see—to take notice of it would show that we recognized ourselves. Even Ah Ling saw that . . . she said that . . ."

"But I'm not going to let some sneak get away with that! I'm going to find out somehow and when I do—"

"Ken! Ken!" she was imploring now, "you must listen to me. Please—please! Don't you see you can't get him for what he wrote. Not legally. He said you left here late. It's true. He can prove it. And if you fight him—why it will just set people to talking. They'll think what they please, anyway. Don't you see, dear?"

She was crying in her earnestness.

No Come-back

The man was still for a moment, only singing emptiness coming over the wire to her. When he spoke again the fire had gone from his voice—he sounded very tired.

"But to have to sit helpless while some one stabs us in the back . . ."

"It's the only thing we can do with safety!"

Another long moment, and when he spoke again his voice was beaten.

"Whatever I do seems to hurt you, Ardeth. I just bring you trouble and unhappiness. It's like the old idea of Greek tragedy. No matter how well intentioned a fellow may be—no matter how he may struggle to go in one direction, he's pre-destined to go the other way. I'm sorry, Ardeth. It's all I can say. I shouldn't have come that night. A rotten thing to do . . . to get you into my own mess. Forgive me."

"Oh—of course! Of course!" She was crying.

"Well . . . Good-by. I want to see you, of course, but it's too dangerous. But I had to talk to you. Good-by, sweetheart."

"Ken!" she cried. But the click on the wire told her that he had hung up.

She replaced the receiver. Looked about the room with vacant eyes as one coming out of a daze. Fortunately, there was no one in here.

She went swiftly to the rear room. Washed her hot face. Patted it with the powder puff. She found herself wondering how Ken had discovered the article.

She was not to find out the answer to that until she went out to see Mary Eastwood later in the week.

Children's Colds Doubly Dangerous With Flu Around

While there is no cause for serious alarm over the development of scattered cases of flu in this locality, health authorities say that extra precautions should be taken to check every cold at the start. Unless treated promptly, colds tend to lower body resistance and may pave the way for an attack of influenza with all its serious complications.

Internal medication should be avoided except on the advice of a physician. Too much "dosing" often disturbs the digestion and lowers the vitality just when the child needs its body-strength most.

Applied externally, Vicks VapoRub can be used freely and as often as needed with no fear of upsetting the stomach.

Rubbed on throat and chest, Vicks acts thru the skin like a poultice or plaster, drawing out the tightness and soreness. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages, loosening the phlegm, and soothing the irritation.

Of course, Vicks two-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles, too.

Don't take chances with colds NOW!

Calls Wastage of Brain Power a Social Tragedy

ONE of the greatest losses incurred by present day society is due to the failure of very large numbers of young people of superior mental capacity to attend college or university, in the opinion of President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota, according to "Minnesota Chats," published by the University of Minnesota for the parents of students.

In a recent statement President Coffman pointed out that 1,600 of the most intelligent high school graduates in Minnesota two years ago said there was no chance of their going to college.

Financial disability is the most common obstacle, studies have shown. One result is that while many of average mental capacity go to college, many with superior mental endowments never have an opportunity to enjoy higher education.

If this group of young people with special mental endowments receives proper training the potential contributions of its members to the welfare of the state will be enormous, and the loss to the state equally enormous if such superior material fails to obtain training, Dr. Coffman believes.

"It has long seemed to us at the University of Minnesota," he writes, "that here is a field to which larger contributions of private fortunes might be made. It is a field to which local service clubs might devote more attention. Municipalities might even find it possible to establish a limited number of scholarships for young men and young women of talent.

"When one bears in mind that each year there are in the state of Minnesota approximately 1,600 high school graduates of high college ability who do not plan to attend any college or university, and that many of these most promising students are barred from further study by lack of funds or the need of social stimulation which comes from local encouragement and public recognition, we must recognize that failure to solve this problem means not only an economic loss but a permanent intellectual and social wastage.

"In making this plea, that in the future the people of the state shall give more encouragement to capable students to attend college," President Coffman continued ,"I do not for a moment mean to imply that the university shall develop any false notions of aristocracy or that those of less talent shall be denied the privilege of receiving the training which they need and from which they can profit. The educational program of a progressive university will not only be in keeping with the spirit of the times but will be so modified as to conform to the objectives and the abilities of the various types of mind represented by the student body."

World to Spend Three Billion on 1931 Roads

ONE hundred and ten nations and political sub-divisions of the world will spend at least $3,000,000,000 on roads and road construction during 1931, according to an estimate by the Automotive Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. World-wide investigations disclose the fact that in the majority of the countries of the world road building has been stimulated as a measure of unemployment relief, and as a consequence, world highway budgets were larger in 1930 than in 1929, and are expected, in 1931, to be larger than ever before.

That history repeats itself in this respect, at least, is attested to by recent findings in India, Asia and other places where ancient roads have come to light built many years ago by sovereigns to provide employment for their people. Many of these ancient roads are in use today, indicating the high quality of construction.

It is gratifying to note that the United States leads the parade of highway construction, with expenditures which, according to the best estimates, will reach $2,000,000,000 during the year.

Though not in as large quantities, many other countries are proportionately increasing their highway budgets to relieve unemployment. From Japan comes the news of a special and additional 40,000,000 yen ($20,000,000) for 1931 roads; in Canada expenditures are expected to be increased by about $20,000,000. Mexico is pushing its great trunk highway system to give Mexico City modern highway connection with Vera Cruz on the Gulf and Laredo and the United States on the North. Argentina in the closing days of 1930 issued a decree calling for bids for the construction of some 800 miles of paved highways with an outlay estimated at $200,000,000 or more. Algeria, the Sudan, Czecho-Slovakia and Greece, all have increased their 1930 budgets.

Jugo-Slavia has a $13,000,000 project on foot for approximately 500 miles. Hungary has an ambitious program already under way and Bulgaria has doubled its highway budget for the previous year. Italy has a vast Public Works program under way employing close to 60,000 men for highway construction. Belgium, Austria and the United Kingdom all have additional plans for the year.

In the Philippines $6,000,000 are to be used for highway construction for the relief of unemployment, and in Porto Rico one million dollars will be spent on roads.

REP. JOHN J. MCNULTY of Minneapolis proposes introducing a bill limiting gasoline filling stations, one for every 500 population. According to that ratio Brainerd would have 20 stations instead of the present high number. At the last council meeting 23 stations with 57 pumps renewed licenses at $25 per pump. In July another group renews licenses. The McNulty bill, if passed, would reduce city license revenue here.

A MACHINE that records your eye movements as you read, making a photographic chart of the length of time spent on each word, the times when you linger over a word, and the instances in which the reader has to go back over a line in order to grasp its meaning has been developed and put in use by the department of psychology at the University of Minnesota.

AUTOMATIC paroles may be made through a system devised by Professor George B. Vold of the University of Minnesota. He has found by laborious examination that parole violations among prisoners in Minnesota averaged 24 per cent.

GIRL UNAFRAID

BY GLADYS JOHNSON

Ken Swears Vengeance On Spy

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"HE KNOWS much, my cousin Lee. What this Cyril Underhill does. Who calls him—" she suddenly checked herself. Slanted a sidewise look at the other girl. Made a little gesture with her hands.

"Well, I have told you because I like you a lot, Miss Carroll. But you will say nothing, of course."

Ardeth was silent, turning over in her mind the information she had just received. She did not doubt the truth of Ah Ling's statement for a moment. She knew the network of relationship which bound together San Francisco's Chinese. She knew the cleverness of these excellent servants who could hear and see all and say nothing—at least to no white person.

Chinatown could ring with the affairs of Pacific avenue, but Pacific avenue would never guess it. It was Ah Ling's personal loyalty alone which had allowed even this much to seep out to her.

The Spy

So Cyril Underhill was The Spy. Her face burned as she remembered the days he had been down here, petted and patronized by the very women he was secretly stabbing in the back.

She remembered him standing, dark and elegant by the Coramandal screen, reading excerpts from the scandalous articles he had secretly written, encouraged by malicious feminine laughter.

Did Cecile know he was The Spy? It would be like her to appreciate the spiteful humor of thus being behind the scenes. Or was Cecile deceived and worked as well? Was this man of no loyalties leading her on, too?

But Ah Ling was right! Ardeth thought with a sudden maddening sense of impotence. Her hands were tied with her knowledge. If she told this to Ken . . . her heart leaped with fright, Ken would kill the sneak. It would mean a scandal which would bring the world down about their ears.

To expose Cyril Underhill would release scandals whose ramifications led far back. An upheaval which would shake a city to its social depths. . .

No. Not yet. Wait! and in the meantime do nothing which could bring this scandal-monger down upon her defenseless head.

That night, when Ah Ling had left, Ardeth went to the little alley in the rear of the shop.

The quick Winter night had fallen. It was black and cold in here. Tall loft buildings frowned down on two sides. The end of the blind alley was formed by her own little shop.

Ardeth had left the night lamp burning in the rear room and now she pressed her face to the window pane where the paint had worn thin.

Objects in the room were plainly visible through the pink light. Anyone in there would be recognizable to one watching from the alley.

Just so had Cyril Underhill stood peering in, that night Ken had come down here, broken and lonely. He had watched the impassioned scene. He had seen Ken leave in the early morning hours. . .

The girl closed her eyes for a moment and shivered.

The thought was like a snake coiled in her path. She repainted the window panes. She hung heavy curtains before it and drew them close at night. But she could not draw a curtain over that disquieting knowledge in her own mind.

The venomous attack left her painfully self-conscious. She dreaded attending to the store the next day. She flushed whenever a customer glanced at her. Something of defiant courage gone from her. She tried to gain it back by lashing herself with self-scorn.

A Coward's Sword

She had told Tom that she was unafraid. Had told that to Mary, and here she was, in panic at the first thrust of a coward's sword.

She looked at her own white reflection in the mirror with disdainful eyes. That was right—let a lie make her look guilty! Was that the sort of thing her pride was fashioned of? Then she deserves to suffer! Whipping up her courage with contempt — hot thought seething behind a cold pride. Struggling back to a measure of self control.

At four, the next afternoon, the phone rang. She found herself mute and trembling at the sound of Ken's voice.

"Ardeth—have you seen this week's Spy? That thing—about us?"

Without waiting for her reply he went on in hot rage, "God, what a rotten thing! If I could get my hands on that beast . . . whoever it is? Don't you care sweetheart! Everyone who knows you will know it's just another of the dirty lies. I'm going down to the printer . I'll find out who that sneak is and he'll print a retraction on the front page or I'll twist his head off!"

She had suddenly galvanized into life. She was clinging to the phone saying in a frantic voice, "No! No, Ken! Listen to me—you musn't do that! Don't you see—it would only make more talk. It would get in the daily papers—it would be dreadful! Oh, don't you see?"

"Ardeth, do you know who The Spy is?" Ken's tone was grim.

She shook her head violently, as though he could see her. Shook it until the hair flapped against her face.

"No! Of course not! But you mustn't try to find out! Can't you see—to take notice of it would show that we recognized ourselves. Even Ah Ling saw that . . . she said that . . ."

"But I'm not going to let such a sneak get away with that! I'm going to find out somehow and when I do—"

"Ken! Ken!" she was imploring now, "you must listen to me. Please—please! Don't you see you can't get him for what he wrote. Not legally. He said you left here late. It's true. He can prove it. And if you fight him—why it will just set people to talking. They'll think what they please, anyway. Don't you see, dear?"

She was crying in her earnestness.

No Come-back

The man was still for a moment, only singing emptiness coming over the wire to her. When he spoke again the fire had gone from his voice—he sounded very tired.

"But to have to sit helpless while some one stabs us in the back . . ."

"It's the only thing we can do with safety!"

Another long moment, and when he spoke again his voice was beaten.

"Whatever I do seems to hurt you, Ardeth. I just bring you trouble and unhappiness. It's like the old idea of Greek tragedy. No matter how well intentioned a fellow may be—no matter how he may struggle to go in one direction, he's pre-destined to go the other way. I'm sorry, Ardeth. It's all I can say. I shouldn't have come that night. A rotten thing to do . . . to get you into my own mess. Forgive me."

"Oh—of course! Of course!" She was crying.

"Well . . . Good-by. I want to see you, of course, but it's too dangerous. But I had to talk to you. Good-by, sweetheart."

"Ken!" she cried. But the click on the wire told her that he had hung up.

She replaced the receiver. Looked about the room with vacant eyes as one coming out of a daze. Fortunately, there was no one in here.

She went swiftly to the rear room. Washed her hot face. Patted it with the powder puff. She found herself wondering how Ken had discovered the article.

She was not to find out the answer to that until she went out to see Mary Eastwood later in the week.

Children's Colds Doubly Dangerous With Flu Around

While there is no cause for serious alarm over the development of scattered cases of flu in this locality, health authorities say that extra precautions should be taken to check every cold at the start. Unless treated promptly, colds tend to lower body resistance and may pave the way for an attack of influenza with all its serious complications.

Internal medication should be avoided except on the advice of a physician. Too much "dosing" often disturbs the digestion and lowers the vitality just when the child needs its body-strength most.

Applied externally, Vicks VapoRub can be used freely and as often as needed with no fear of upsetting the stomach.

Rubbed on throat and chest, Vicks acts thru the skin like a poultice or plaster, drawing out the tightness and soreness. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages, loosening the phlegm, and soothing the irritation.

Of course, Vicks two-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles, too.

Don't take chances with colds NOW!

10 FAMILIES JOIN BETHLEHEM LUTH.

Reports of Officers Show Church Has Enjoyed Fine Year; Election Held

ALL OBLIGATIONS MET

Congregation Presents Gift to Organist; Augsburg Singers Invited Here

The Bethlehem Lutheran congregation assembled for its annual business meeting last evening at 8 o'clock. A large number of the members were in attendance. Ten families representing 30 were added to the membership at this meeting.

The reports given by the different officers showed a very successful year, with fine progress made both in the congregation and its various branches.

The financial board reported that all obligations had been met with a nice surplus on hand.

The result of the annual election was as follows:

President—Rev. J. R. Michaelson.
Vice President—Martin J. Reis.
Secretary—Albert Ellison.
Treasurer—Henry M. Anderson.
Trustee for three years—William Olson.
Trustees for one year — Andrew Holum, Theo. Newgard and Fred W. Kruger.
Deacon for three years—Carl Anderson.
Deacon for two years—Ole Stene.
Deaconesses for one year — Mrs. John Hoston and Mrs. R. A. Michaelson.
Organist—Miss Thelma Reis.
Superintendent for Sunday school—Rev. J. R. Michaelson.
Assistant Superintendents — Miss Thelma Reis and Martin Gudmunson.
Board of Ushers—Theo. Newgard, S. E. Engbretson, Ole Skillestad, Ole Antonson, Otto Dahl, Bernhard Kittelson, Norman Hanson and John Hoston.

The congregation at this session presented Miss Thelma Reis with a little token of appreciation in recognition of faithful services as church organist.

An invitation was also extended to the Augsburg Male Glee club of Augsburg Seminary and College at Minneapolis, to visit the congregation on its tour of northern Minnesota in March.

WARRIORS STEP BACK INTO FORMER PACE; WIN 2 GAMES OVER WEEK-END

SUCCESSFUL COMBATS NOT EXAMPLES OF GOOD BASKETBALL, HOWEVER

Playing a fast but rather wild game the Warriors broke the nine straight wins for the Wadena high last Friday by handing them an 18-14 defeat.

The second string boys started the game with rather hard luck. Though their defense functioned well they were unable to stop the barrage of long shots handed them by the Wadent quint.

The regulars were then ushered in to the cheers of the crowd and held the Wadena aggregation to a couple of scoreless quarters, in the meantime pushing their own score up to a 4-point lead.

The game was peppy from start th finish, marked and marred by many long shots in both ranks. Much recklessness was apparent in the ball handling, and excitement prevailed throughout the clash.

The refereeing, handled by Michie of Little Falls, was good.

The line-ups were:

Brainerd — Wygle, f; Foster, f; Swanson, f; Larson, f; Patterson, c; Wygle, c; White, g; McPherson, g; Franks, g; Marshall, f.

Wadena—Zozel, f; Hanson, f; Johnson, f; Askew, c; Johnson, g; Olin, g.

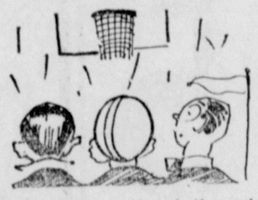

Play Staples There

Playing decidedly below par, the Warriors traveled to Staples Saturday night and administered a 20-19 defeat to Red quint. The Warriors decidedly behind at the end of the first quarter, came back in the second quarter to forge ahead and to hold their lead throughout the remainder of the clash.

The game completed a good week-end for the Warriors. Though rather slumping in form they managed to capture their two encounters by low, close scores.

Foster and Marshall bore the brunt on the scoring end for Brainerd by scoring 9 and 7 points respectively. Probstle and Peterson each scored 5 points for Staples.

The game was exciting to the point of collapse. Brainerd rooters in small numbers were scattered through the crowd and shouted bravely for their fighting Warriors.

Line-ups were:

Brainerd — Foster, Larson, Wygle, forwards; Patterson, Franks, centers; Marshall, McPherson, White, guards.

Staples—Holliday, Peterson, Belch, forwards; Cord, center; Probstle, Barrows, Wackler, guards.

French Revolution Used as Theme of Contracts

In response to Miss Walkup's call for contract work in Modern History a very clever coach designed by Irja Huhtula and Ruth Sifert was received. It was modeled after the coach used by the Fisher Body Corporation in their advertising and represents the type common to the time of Louis XVI. Some very realistic guillotines, even to the knife, were turned in by Este Varner, Roy Lindberg, Russell Nylund and Howard Zander.

One of the most interesting asignments given out was the chance to publish a newspaper as it might have appeared during the time of the French Revolution. Accordingly the "La France Gazette" by Delia Britton and "France" by Vera Congdon were written up. They contained interviews which might have been received from Mirabeau, Marat and Robespierre; An espicially interesting account of the execution of Charlotte Cordey, the murderer of Marat was written up in the "France.

Dolls, representing miniature Marie Antonettes, were dressed by Agnes Olson. Esther Schulz and Virginia Lindberg.

A model of the Bastile and some implements of war were turned in by Cyril DeRosier.

Unknown Heroes and Unsung Praises

Decoration and refreshment committees; play coaches; willing art students who are always contributing posters; the Brainonian typists; and the rest of the Branonian staff; Corna Stickney and Margaret Vadnais; subs who practice faithfully but somehow never get in the game; the faculty; and perhaps a lot more that we havn't been able to find.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS TO DECORATE CLUB ROOMS

A number of important things were decided upon at the last Netoppew Camp Fire meeting.

A food sale was set for Saturday, January 24. Alta Creger, Mardelle Mc Gaffigan, Marie Rau, and Margaret Casey were appointed to take charge of the sale. All the camp fire girls of this city are very enthuiastic about the new club rooms in the city hall. Miss True, Evangeline Twist and Marie Rau went up to the rooms last Monday to plan a color scheme which is to be carried out in these rooms. With the help of Miss True, everyone knows it will be successful.

The Netoppew girls planned for a skating party which is to be held sometime in the near future.

Clara Grimstad was voted into the group; she was a member of this group last year, but since she attended school only a half day the first semester, she could not join till now.

Library Assignments Used for History Contracts

Miss Graham has started some very interesting work for her Modern History classes. The students go to the library and read 30 pages (or more) of historic events or persons, making out a complete report to be handed in to Miss Graham at the end of each week. These repors are valued at five points each, making a total of 30 points for six weeks.

This will be a pleasure for most of the pupils as nearly all enjoy library work.

Miss Graham told her classes that this work corresponded to that of a college, where the students read (at least) one hundred pages a week.

EXCHANGE

Marshall high school, Minneapolis, has a real radio station. This short wave set was built by the students under the supervision of the Physics instructor. The call letters are W9GCA, and the station is operated by one of the students who holds an amateur radio operator's license. The station is permitted to operate by a federal radio license.

The Detroit Lakes high school of Detroit Lakes, Minn., is to have a Hall of Fame selected by the student body. Everybody has a chance to get into the hall, but we can't seem to find what they're getting in for.

We have received the Albany high school paper (Albany, Minn.) more regularly than any high school paper on our exchange list. The paper is very much like our own Brainonian, being affiliated with their town paper, the Albany Register.

The Student American, which we have been receiving quite frequently, is published by the National Student Sobriety society. The paper comes from Palo Aito, Calif. Their motto is "Americanism Cannot be Preserved in Alcohol!"

We don't get papers just from Minnesota and a few of the surrounding states, but from Washington—from Yakima, Wash. It is a large four-paged paper, publsihed weekly by the students of Yakima high school. The responsibility of editorship, there too, is placed on a girl. That just "goes to show!"

The paper was sent to Janet Kampmann, our own editor, by Evelyn Vanek, a former student of B. H. S.

GLEE CLUBS DRILL FOR THE CONTEST

HOME ORGANIZATION TO COMPETE WITH SURROUNDING TOWNS

Enthusiasm is already being shown among members of the Glee clubs toward their biggest event of this spring which will be the musical contest of May 2.

We are entering this for the first time this year, with the district contest here in our own high school.

The towns which will probably compete with our own organizations will be Staples, Wadena, Little Falls, Crosby-Ironton, and Aitkin—and possibly smaller towns within this district.

The music for the different entries has been selected by the committee in charge and copies of the required numbers are now in the hands of Miss Rickard. They include those for mixed choruses, girls' and boys' glee clubs, and also for junior high glee clubs. There will be other numbers planned for entry where no test piece is required, other than one of their own choosing such as string ensemble and quartets or trios of different combinations of voices.

We will plan for as many entries as our voices and instruments will permit, and, with exacting, concentrated practice on the part of those participating we hope that Brainerd will come to the front.

Boys' voices are greatly needed to carry out certain requirements, so boys—please come out and support this big event, and don't let the other towns carry off all the honors.

There are limitations as to numbers so a very careful selection of voices is necessary, and these will be chosen very soon.

CORA RICKARD.

ALUMNI

Miss Myrtle Fox, class of '29, is teaching in District 8 in the absence of Miss Laura Racine, who is ill.

Miss Verona Trask, also of the class of '29 is teaching at District 40, east of Brainerd.

John Fisher visited at the home of his parents over the week-end. He is a student at the U. of M.

Ray Anderson returned to the U. of M. after spending the week-end at the home of his parents.

Sidelights on the Game

Wadena's yelling was led by a girl, who went through various graceful maneuvers on the floor.

The Pep band occupied a much more advantageous position on the floor than on the balcony, as the music carried much better.

Friday night was the initial appearance of Mr. Ford, the Pep band director. He had some cute little tricks—sailing his baton out on the gym floor and whisking it through that bunch of hair while keping time.

With all the yell leaders, Brainerd's team ought to have good support throughout the rest of the games.

The score Saturday wasn't anything to brag about, but the main reason was the strenuous game Friday.

* * *

Foster seemed to be lucky in his overhead shots.

* * *

The last five minutes of the Staples game seemed like five years.

MANUAL TRAINING STUDENTS FASHION OBJECTS FROM WOOD

BOYS CONSTRUCT MANY HELPFUL ARTICLES FOR SCHOOL

Three cheers for the Manuel Training Department! ! ! The boys under the able supervision of Mr. Rosel, do everything from mending a freshies dollie to making a shovel handle for the janitor.

As well as their class work, they always find time to mend a broken article or make a new one to add to the beauty of the school.

Two of the boys have completed several pedestals that are being used in the office for ornamental plants.

Ted Frank contributed the sticks and standards for the new flags in our assemblies.

The class work is of the type that they as well as their instructor may be justly proud.

A very attractive smoking stand was recently finished by Julius Miller, and Irwin Herrmann is constructing a library table that promises to be a master piece.

But perhaps the most artistic as well as the greatest piece of work, is the fernery designed and built by Lloyd Johnson. It is made of mahogany wood, with a large box for ferns and other green plants and has also an arrangement for hanging baskets.

In addition to these mentioned, there are many other articles that merit praise for their beauty and practicability as well as show an outstanding high quality of workmanship.

SENIOR WOMEN

Allow me to present Milly, the sweetest little thing in school. She has the most adorable way of "yessing" all the powers around school. She couldn't lose her temper. She's saccharine all through. And when she rests those big blue lamps on some young Sophomore's countenance and whispers, "O you great big handsome he man," inferiority complexes vanish like woolen underwear on the Fourth of July.

Merry Mary's Diary, Monday, Jan. 26.

Up before the sun. Breakfast and off to school. Tru a round of classes, with a Brainonian article worked in between. Home to washday dinner of stew and brown bread. Back at school for two more classes and two hours of Brainonian work. Supper of left-over stew and brown bread. Dishes. An hour of studying. To bed.

Did you know that Miss Mathis writes short stories that are accepted by popular magazines? That we have a model apartment in the high school? That Mr. Ford has a very good bass voice? That Elizabeth Irvine and Carl Holvick had naother fight? That Miss Oerting organized the Semper Paratus club in the high school the first time she taught here? That Margaret Vadnais is in the office only in the morning? That you can get a good lunch in the cafeteria for twenty-three cents?

Eino Freeman, freshman, boasts the highest average in the high school with a 93½, with Charles Peterson, sophomore, just ½ point behind him.

Aboriginal Dialects

A University of California research professor has found that 104 languages and dialects were spoken by the aborigines when the first white men reached the state.

Normal Training Notes

On Tuesday, January 13, Miss Reid and Mr. Molstad, county superintendent, visited school district number 8 where Alvina Racine, a student of the Brainerd department, taught for a week and a half in the absence of her sister Laura Racine who is ill. They also called on Mr. Gray, who has just moved into the new school building at Fort Ripley.

On Friday, January 16, Jennie Babcock visited the school at district number 39 where Violet Hoston is teaching.

Alice Lind substituted for Mrs. Loom at district 57 last Thursday and Friday.

An excellent outline map of Minnesota has been recently added to the equipment of the department, which will doubtless prove very beneficial in future work on the state.

After a lapse of several weeks, practice teaching in language, arithmetic and primary work has been resumed in several of the ward buildings.

Extraordinary enthusiasm seems to be awakening, both in Brainerd and in surrounding towns concerning the Brainerd Teacher Training Department and its work. From all appearances of local and out-of-town applications, the quota of sixteen members will be reached in a very short time. Never in the history of this department have any boys belonged to the class, Next year, however, promises to be different as several applications from B. H. S. senior boys have already been received.

S. P. C. PLAY PROVES VERY ENTERTAINING

SECOND SOCIAL HOUR BRINGS FORTH GAMES AND REFRESHMENTS

"Let's Move the Furniture," a one-act comedy, given by the Semper Paratus club last Wednesday, was the crowning item of the evening, which every member thoroughly enjoyed. The parts were very well taken by Mildred Johnson, Edman Jernberg, Dwight Curo, Gerald Cass, John Linn, and Elizabeth Irvine.

Besides the above play there were three musical selections which added much variety and entertainment to the meeting. Dorothy Opsahl opened the program with a clever tap dance and was followed by a violin solo by Harriet Halvorson who played two popular selections with much dexterity of the bow. After the play, Arline Hagberg finished the entertainment with a delightful piano solo which showed remarked skill and rhythm.

After all the business had been concluded the members adjourned only to assemble in the cafeteria where divers games were played until the lunch, which consisted of pie ala-mode and coffee, was ready. After partaking of the refreshments the evening ended with the fervent wish for another meeting in the near future.

Seniors Revise Dictionary to Suit Their Whims

We never realize how mentally incapacitated we seniors are utnil it comes right down to taking an intelligence test. We had one of those last Wednesday and reading them over was better than reading a magazine full of jokes. The funniest read thus:

griddle—belt.
loser—one who cheats.
Malt—salve—foam.
molasses—beverage.
perpendicular—angular.
rift—craft.
squad—young pigeon.
stun—sting.
tissue—nucleus.
weird—odious.
workshop—museum.
wrapper—satchel.
advisor—aggressor.
bagpipe—glass blowing nistrument.
custard—beverage.
doze—overtask.
editor—gossiper.
wrung—ejected.

Shades of Noah Webster—if he knew the Seniors, he would have to rewrite the dictionary.

WEEZY'S SNEEZES

Teacher: "A hedge hog on the ground is the sign of a late winter."

Student: "Yes, and a banana peel on the sidewalk is the sign of an early fall."

"O, heavens! I swallowed a pin. What shall I do?"

"Well, don't make all that fuss over one pin; here's another."

Miss Walkup: "Helen, have you read 'Freckles'?"

Helen Sheets: "No ma'am, mine are brown."

She: "You must have come from Alaska."

He: "Why so?"

She: 'Cause you dance like you had snowshoes on your feet."

Teacher "Why the quotation marks on this papar?"

Student: "Courtesy to the man on my right."

LIBRARY OPENED FOR HIGH SCHOOL; BOOKS VARY IN SUBJECT MATTER

MISS BARBARA CORFIELD PRESENTS LIST CONTAINING FICTION AND NON-FICTION

At last the fond dreams of a Brainerd high school library has become a reality, for this week the doors have opened to admit the students into this new sanctuary of study. Barbara Corfield has been secured as librarian in charge, through whose efforts during the past six weeks the books have been clasified, numbered and put in their places on the shelves. This is certainly some task, when there are at present 1,855 books almost all of which are new, these are divided into two large groups, fiction and non-fiction. The latter is subdivided again into ten classes, to be found on the right hand side, as you enter from the main entrance, the former are on the left of the entrance. In the non-fiction group there are many fine references on Economics, Civics, Biology, Literature, (both English and American), and History, this last group also includes Geography, Biography, Travel and any type of book on any subject. The possibilities of the fiction section may be discoveted readily by a little research into its shelves.

Any book which is not a general reference—such as Who's Who, World Almanac, Statesman's Year Book, etc., or books on the reserve shelf, may be taken out for a period of seven days by merely placing your name on the card which is in the pocket of the book and leave it with the librarian. Clippings, pamphlets and magazines are also provided for general use. This wonderful selection of books was chosen by a committee of teachers and authorities, from Wilson's standard catalogue of books, to fit the needs of a high school this size.

Those who have already visited the library do not find it fundamentally different from the public library, which they have been accustomed to.

It is the desire and hope of those who have made this beautiful library with all its books and fixtures a possibility, that the students will take such a pride in their new possession that it will look as fine at the end of the year as it does now.

Quiet and order must be preserved in the library, and as a punishment for those few who choose to conduct themselves in disorderly fashion their library privileges will be suspended for a period of two weeks or more.

Many of the students have become acquainted with the library and how to use it by Miss Corfield, the librarian, who took classes through one at a time, giving instructions and discussing parts of interest with the groups.

Although written permission has to be obtained the day before from Miss Corfield for the use of the library during school hours, anyone may come in at other times, and it is the expressed wish of the faculty and librarian that they do, for they want the library to play a growing part in student life and activities.

Seniors Given Short College Aptitude Tests

In preparation for the aptitude tests in March, the Seniors took a four-minute preliminary test last Wednesday morning during the twenty-minute period. This test was entirely based on vocabulary consisting of 30 words. The object was to choose the right word out of five which most nearly defined or explained one of the 30. The results were as follows:

Helen Sheets and George Irvine made perfect scores. 29 out of 30 the following had correct: Ray Wareing, Ellen Ylinen, Rose Johnson, Alice Nolan, and Dwight Curo. Luella Hill, Ralph Lukens, Arthur Van Walk, Lola Fox, Mardelle Cuningham, Fay Rosina, Marian Maghan, Loren Lovsted, George Fox, Stuart Patterson, and Kenneth Stimson scored 28 correct answers.

Seniors Retain Lead in Interclass Basketball

Interclass basketball under the able coaching of Mr. Melby and Mr. Taylor has progressed unusually well.

Last Friday some very good basketball talent was found when the Sophomores won their first game by defeating the Freshmen 10-1. The undefeated Seniors downed the Juniors 26-2 in a very one sided fray.

The standings at present are Seniors 1,000 percent; Juniors 500 percent; Sophomores 250 percent; and Freshmen 250 percent.

PAT'S PATTER

One Boy to Another.

Yoo hoo, Skinny C'mon out; I gotta tell yuh somep'n funny. Yuh shoulda seen the boys' jim today. Wy yuh wouldnta noed it. They waz girls an teechers an a fotygraffer there evertime I went to see Coach Dan-mon.

There was that lil ol Brainonian staff yuh heer so much about an seldom see hobnobbin it wid the orchestra, band, and Camp Fire girls. They had quite a jubilee, I herd. Who tol me? Wy my pal, Louie, tol me. Oh, yiah, she's bin a good pal o' mine ever since I interdooced her to me big brudder wot goes to the U. One uv her latest crushes, I gess, an wen Louie gets a crush she fall in a big way, now I'm tellin yuh.

Yuh no how fastidjus and finicky Eddie is? Well, he wuz all put out as to whut his hair loowed like an ast Millie Johnson (his lil chechmate) if it waz O. K. and she havin worries uv her own snaps him up in the tenshun with "No, it's wavy." Well he don't need to let her get him riled cuz it aint permanent.

Then L. sed Stewart Patterson had a awful time keepin his place next to Jean Cass cuz the fotygraffer didn't think it proper in public.

I com in about that time an got a squint at em. Boy that piesher shure ain't goin to be nothing to jump up and down and rattle yer false teeth over.

Mr. Penrose, the advizer, wuz on wun end an Miss Tornstrom (no classification needed) wuz on the other. Miss Tornstrom had to take off the specks (Naw, her glasses; spectacles, yuh nit) an it made her looz sum uv her dignity an she even smiled Wy her smile wuz so dazzlin the flashlights kep fizzlin out—too much competition.

Mr. Penrose on the other hand (Whose? I didn't say he wuz on anybodys, an I don't like all this interpretation). Well, he wuz akshully scairt to get his map focused cuz he sez its only his sixth time befor the camera. Gee! Such a selebritie. He shud go in fer the movies, shudn't he?

I almost got nocked down by Ray Wareing—He wuz stumblin all over himself an grinnin like a cheshire cat wots kinda smirk about somep'n an I began to look for the cause. Gess wot it wuz—Nope, yer as blind as everone else. It's Helen Sheets. She wuz in the picture an had a grin plastered all over her face as big as yer hand. (What's unusual? Aw I didn't say her face wuz that way, her smile, yuh Aspirin).

Janet Kampmann, the lil shrimp, had one uv er sofistocated looks on to show she wuz editor. She's gonna scratch her nose on the seelin some day.

Well, I gess I'll be goin. I gotta go see Bernice. Oh, she's my girl now since she put Carl in his place. Oh, didn't you heer about it? Yeah, she sings her "Mammy" songs quite a lot at clubs; yuh know how she pretends she's Al Jolson or Fannie Brice an shrinks yer heart-strings with her latest sob stuff—Well, she got him cornered one nite an wuz goin strong wen she suddenly felt a little apology wuz needed an sed, "Oh, this don't mean nothin."

Oh-Oh. Cully certainly radiated heat an everbody fairly hooted. Oh, Gee! There's Ma callin an there's battle in that voeci o' hers. Well, Bernice will haf to wait fer her lil heart-breaker till later.

Abessinia Samoa.

(I'll be seein yuh some more).

After School Classes to Help Weak Students

In order to assist backward students or Seniors with conditions in either Economics or in Shorthand II, two after school classes have been instigated by Miss Ruthe and Mr. Penrose.

Mr. Penrose's class meets on Thursday from 3:20 to 4 o'clock for all Economic students who have an average of 75 or below and for anymore students who wish to attend.

Miss Ruthe's class convenes on Tuesday from 3:20 to 4 o'clock and is made up of all Shorthand II students with an average of 80 or below and all other students who are unable to pass weekly transcription tests.

These classes will meet weekly until all conditions are made up.

A short business meeting of the Tri-Hi club was held Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. club rooms. Because the weatherman has not favored us with snow, the girls decided to give a different kind of a party than a sleigh-ride. This party is to be held Feb. 7. The next meeting will be a supper meeting, and supper will be served promptly at 6:15.

SHIP OF DREAMS

My ship of dreams is drifting out to sea,
And miles of water part my ship and me.
At dawn on opening wide my sleepy eyes
It sailed, so swanlike there against the skies.

But dusk is lowering scarlet tinted wings,
And down among the cliffs a night bird sings.
My ship is sailing—oh how far away;
I'm glad I called it mine for one sweet day.

WARRIORS STEP BACK INTO FORMER PACE; WIN 2 GAMES OVER WEEK-END

SUCCESSFUL COMBATS NOT EXAMPLES OF GOOD BASKETBALL, HOWEVER

Playing a fast but rather wild game the Warriors broke the nine straight wins for the Wadena high last Friday by handing them an 18-14 defeat.

The second string boys started the game with rather hard luck. Though their defense functioned well they were unable to stop the barrage of long shots handed them by the Wadent quint.

The regulars were then ushered in to the cheers of the crowd and held the Wadena aggregation to a couple of scoreless quarters, in the meantime pushing their own score up to a 4-point lead.

The game was peppy from start th finish, marked and marred by many long shots in both ranks. Much recklessness was apparent in the ball handling, and excitement prevailed throughout the clash.

The refereeing, handled by Michie of Little Falls, was good.

The line-ups were:

Brainerd — Wygle, f; Foster, f; Swanson, f; Larson, f; Patterson, c; Wygle, c; White, g; McPherson, g; Franks, g; Marshall, f.

Wadena—Zozel, f; Hanson, f; Johnson, f; Askew, c; Johnson, g; Olin, g.

Play Staples There

Playing decidedly below par, the Warriors traveled to Staples Saturday night and administered a 20-19 defeat to Red quint. The Warriors decidedly behind at the end of the first quarter, came back in the second quarter to forge ahead and to hold their lead throughout the remainder of the clash.

The game completed a good week-end for the Warriors. Though rather slumping in form they managed to capture their two encounters by low, close scores.

Foster and Marshall bore the brunt on the scoring end for Brainerd by scoring 9 and 7 points respectively. Probstle and Peterson each scored 5 points for Staples.

The game was exciting to the point of collapse. Brainerd rooters in small numbers were scattered through the crowd and shouted bravely for their fighting Warriors.

Line-ups were:

Brainerd — Foster, Larson, Wygle, forwards; Patterson, Franks, centers; Marshall, McPherson, White, guards.

Staples—Holliday, Peterson, Belch, forwards; Cord, center; Probstle, Barrows, Wackler, guards.

French Revolution Used as Theme of Contracts

In response to Miss Walkup's call for contract work in Modern History a very clever coach designed by Irja Huhtula and Ruth Sifert was received. It was modeled after the coach used by the Fisher Body Corporation in their advertising and represents the type common to the time of Louis XVI. Some very realistic guillotines, even to the knife, were turned in by Este Varner, Roy Lindberg, Russell Nylund and Howard Zander.

One of the most interesting asignments given out was the chance to publish a newspaper as it might have appeared during the time of the French Revolution. Accordingly the "La France Gazette" by Delia Britton and "France" by Vera Congdon were written up. They contained interviews which might have been received from Mirabeau, Marat and Robespierre; An espicially interesting account of the execution of Charlotte Cordey, the murderer of Marat was written up in the "France.

Dolls, representing miniature Marie Antonettes, were dressed by Agnes Olson. Esther Schulz and Virginia Lindberg.

A model of the Bastile and some implements of war were turned in by Cyril DeRosier.

Unknown Heroes and Unsung Praises

Decoration and refreshment committees; play coaches; willing art students who are always contributing posters; the Brainonian typists; and the rest of the Branonian staff; Corna Stickney and Margaret Vadnais; subs who practice faithfully but somehow never get in the game; the faculty; and perhaps a lot more that we havn't been able to find.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS TO DECORATE CLUB ROOMS

A number of important things were decided upon at the last Netoppew Camp Fire meeting.

A food sale was set for Saturday, January 24. Alta Creger, Mardelle Mc Gaffigan, Marie Rau, and Margaret Casey were appointed to take charge of the sale. All the camp fire girls of this city are very enthuiastic about the new club rooms in the city hall. Miss True, Evangeline Twist and Marie Rau went up to the rooms last Monday to plan a color scheme which is to be carried out in these rooms. With the help of Miss True, everyone knows it will be successful.

The Netoppew girls planned for a skating party which is to be held sometime in the near future.

Clara Grimstad was voted into the group; she was a member of this group last year, but since she attended school only a half day the first semester, she could not join till now.

Library Assignments Used for History Contracts

Miss Graham has started some very interesting work for her Modern History classes. The students go to the library and read 30 pages (or more) of historic events or persons, making out a complete report to be handed in to Miss Graham at the end of each week. These repors are valued at five points each, making a total of 30 points for six weeks.

This will be a pleasure for most of the pupils as nearly all enjoy library work.

Miss Graham told her classes that this work corresponded to that of a college, where the students read (at least) one hundred pages a week.

EXCHANGE

Marshall high school, Minneapolis, has a real radio station. This short wave set was built by the students under the supervision of the Physics instructor. The call letters are W9GCA, and the station is operated by one of the students who holds an amateur radio operator's license. The station is permitted to operate by a federal radio license.

The Detroit Lakes high school of Detroit Lakes, Minn., is to have a Hall of Fame selected by the student body. Everybody has a chance to get into the hall, but we can't seem to find what they're getting in for.

We have received the Albany high school paper (Albany, Minn.) more regularly than any high school paper on our exchange list. The paper is very much like our own Brainonian, being affiliated with their town paper, the Albany Register.

The Student American, which we have been receiving quite frequently, is published by the National Student Sobriety society. The paper comes from Palo Aito, Calif. Their motto is "Americanism Cannot be Preserved in Alcohol!"

We don't get papers just from Minnesota and a few of the surrounding states, but from Washington—from Yakima, Wash. It is a large four-paged paper, publsihed weekly by the students of Yakima high school. The responsibility of editorship, there too, is placed on a girl. That just "goes to show!"

The paper was sent to Janet Kampmann, our own editor, by Evelyn Vanek, a former student of B. H. S.

GLEE CLUBS DRILL FOR THE CONTEST

HOME ORGANIZATION TO COMPETE WITH SURROUNDING TOWNS

Enthusiasm is already being shown among members of the Glee clubs toward their biggest event of this spring which will be the musical contest of May 2.

We are entering this for the first time this year, with the district contest here in our own high school.

The towns which will probably compete with our own organizations will be Staples, Wadena, Little Falls, Crosby-Ironton, and Aitkin—and possibly smaller towns within this district.

The music for the different entries has been selected by the committee in charge and copies of the required numbers are now in the hands of Miss Rickard. They include those for mixed choruses, girls' and boys' glee clubs, and also for junior high glee clubs. There will be other numbers planned for entry where no test piece is required, other than one of their own choosing such as string ensemble and quartets or trios of different combinations of voices.

We will plan for as many entries as our voices and instruments will permit, and, with exacting, concentrated practice on the part of those participating we hope that Brainerd will come to the front.

Boys' voices are greatly needed to carry out certain requirements, so boys—please come out and support this big event, and don't let the other towns carry off all the honors.

There are limitations as to numbers so a very careful selection of voices is necessary, and these will be chosen very soon.

CORA RICKARD.

ALUMNI

Miss Myrtle Fox, class of '29, is teaching in District 8 in the absence of Miss Laura Racine, who is ill.

Miss Verona Trask, also of the class of '29 is teaching at District 40, east of Brainerd.

John Fisher visited at the home of his parents over the week-end. He is a student at the U. of M.

Ray Anderson returned to the U. of M. after spending the week-end at the home of his parents.

Sidelights on the Game

Wadena's yelling was led by a girl, who went through various graceful maneuvers on the floor.

The Pep band occupied a much more advantageous position on the floor than on the balcony, as the music corried much better.

Friday night was the initial appearance of Mr. Ford, the Pep band director. He had some cute little tricks—sailing his baton out on the gym floor and whisking it through that bunch of hair while keping time.

* * *

With all the yell leaders, Brainerd's team ought to have good support throughout the rest of the games.

* * *

The score Saturday wasn't anything to brag about, but the main reason was the strenuous game Friday.

* * *

Foster seemed to be lucky in his overhead shots.

* * *

The last five minutes of the Staples game seemed like five years.

MANUAL TRAINING STUDENTS FASHION OBJECTS FROM WOOD

BOYS CONSTRUCT MANY HELPFUL ARTICLES FOR SCHOOL

Three cheers for the Manuel Training Department! ! ! The boys under the able supervision of Mr. Rosel, do everything from mending a freshies dollie to making a shovel handle for the janitor.

As well as their class work, they always find time to mend a broken article or make a new one to add to the beauty of the school.

Two of the boys have completed several pedestals that are being used in the office for ornamental plants.

Ted Frank contributed the sticks and standards for the new flags in our assemblies.

The class work is of the type that they as well as their instructor may be justly proud.

A very attractive smoking stand was recently finished by Julius Miller, and Irwin Herrmann is constructing a library table that promises to be a master piece.

But perhaps the most artistic as well as the greatest piece of work, is the fernery designed and built by Lloyd Johnson. It is made of mahogany wood, with a large box for ferns and other green plants and has also an arrangement for hanging baskets.

In addition to these mentioned, there are many other articles that merit praise for their beauty and practicability as well as show an outstanding high quality of workmanship.

SENIOR WOMEN

Allow me to present Milly, the sweetest little thing in school. She has the most adorable way of "yessing" all the powers around school. She couldn't lose her temper. She's saccharine all through. And when she rests those big blue lamps on some young Sophomore's countenance and whispers, "O you great big handsome he man," inferiority complexes vanish like woolen underwear on the Fourth of July.

Up before the sun. Breakfast and off to school. Tru a round of classes, with a Brainonian article worked in between. Home to washday dinner of stew and brown bread. Back at school for two more classes and two hours of Brainonian work. Supper of left-over stew and brown bread. Dishes. An hour of studying. To bed.

Did you know that Miss Mathis writes short stories that are accepted by popular magazines? That we have a model apartment in the high school? That Mr. Ford has a very good bass voice? That Elizabeth Irvine and Carl Holvick had naother fight? That Miss Oerting organized the Semper Paratus club in the high school the first time she taught here? That Margaret Vadnais is in the office only in the morning? That you can get a good lunch in the cafeteria for twenty-three cents?

Eino Freeman, freshman, boasts the highest average in the high school with a 93½, with Charles Peterson, sophomore, just ½ point behind him.

Aboriginal Dialects

A University of California research professor has found that 104 languages and dialects were spoken by the aborigines when the first white men reached the state.

Normal Training Notes

On Tuesday, January 13, Miss Reid and Mr. Molstad, county superintendent, visited school district number 8 where Alvina Racine, a student of the Brainerd department, taught for a week and a half in the absence of her sister Laura Racine who is ill. They also called on Mr. Gray, who has just moved into the new school building at Fort Ripley.

On Friday, January 16, Jennie Babcock visited the school at district number 39 where Violet Hoston is teaching.

Alice Lind substituted for Mrs. Loom at district 57 last Thursday and Friday.

An excellent outline map of Minnesota has been recently added to the equipment of the department, which will doubtless prove very beneficial in future work on the state.

After a lapse of several weeks, practice teaching in language, arithmetic and primary work has been resumed in several of the ward buildings.

Extraordinary enthusiasm seems to be awakening, both in Brainerd and in surrounding towns concerning the Brainerd Teacher Training Department and its work. From all appearances of local and out-of-town applications, the quota of sixteen members will be reached in a very short time. Never in the history of this department have any boys belonged to the class, Next year, however, promises to be different as several applications from B. H. S. senior boys have already been received.

S. P. C. PLAY PROVES VERY ENTERTAINING

SECOND SOCIAL HOUR BRINGS FORTH GAMES AND REFRESHMENTS

"Let's Move the Furniture," a one-act comedy, given by the Semper Paratus club last Wednesday, was the crowning item of the evening, which every member thoroughly enjoyed. The parts were very well taken by Mildred Johnson, Edman Jernberg, Dwight Curo, Gerald Cass, John Linn, and Elizabeth Irvine.

Besides the above play there were three musical selections which added much variety and entertainment to the meeting. Dorothy Opsahl opened the program with a clever tap dance and was followed by a violin solo by Harriet Halvorson who played two popular selections with much dexterity of the bow. After the play, Arline Hagberg finished the entertainment with a delightful piano solo which showed remarked skill and rhythm.

After all the business had been concluded the members adjourned only to assemble in the cafeteria where divers games were played until the lunch, which consisted of pie ala-mode and coffee, was ready. After partaking of the refreshments the evening ended with the fervent wish for another meeting in the near future.

Seniors Revise Dictionary to Suit Their Whims

We never realize how mentally incapacitated we seniors are utnil it comes right down to taking an intelligence test. We had one of those last Wednesday and reading them over was better than reading a magazine full of jokes. The funniest read thus:

griddle—belt.
loser—one who cheats.
Malt—salve—foam.
molasses—beverage.
perpendicular—angular.
rift—craft.
squad—young pigeon.
stun—sting.
tissue—nucleus.
weird—odious.
workshop—museum.
wrapper—satchel.
advisor—aggressor.
bagpipe—glass blowing nistrument.
custard—beverage.
doze—overtask.
editor—gossiper.
wrung—ejected.

Shades of Noah Webster—if he knew the Seniors, he would have to rewrite the dictionary.

WEEZY'S SNEEZES

Teacher: "A hedge hog on the ground is the sign of a late winter."

Student: "Yes, and a banana peel on the sidewalk is the sign of an early fall."

"O, heavens! I swallowed a pin. What shall I do?"

"Well, don't make all that fuss over one pin; here's another."

* * *

Miss Walkup: "Helen, have you read 'Freckles'?"

Helen Sheets: "No ma'am, mine are brown."

She: "You must have come from Alaska."

He: "Why so?"

She: 'Cause you dance like you had snowshoes on your feet."

* * *

Teacher "Why the quotation marks on this papar?"

Student: "Courtesy to the man on my right."

LIBRARY OPENED FOR HIGH SCHOOL; BOOKS VARY IN SUBJECT MATTER

MISS BARBARA CORFIELD PRESENTS LIST CONTAINING FICTION AND NON-FICTION

At last the fond dreams of a Brainerd high school library has become a reality, for this week the doors have opened to admit the students into this new sanctuary of study. Barbara Corfield has been secured as librarian in charge, through whose efforts during the past six weeks the books have been clasified, numbered and put in their places on the shelves. This is certainly some task, when there are at present 1,855 books almost all of which are new, these are divided into two large groups, fiction and non-fiction. The latter is subdivided again into ten classes, to be found on the right hand side, as you enter from the main entrance, the former are on the left of the entrance. In the non-fiction group there are many fine references on Economics, Civics, Biology, Literature, (both English and American), and History, this last group also includes Geography, Biography, Travel and any type of book on any subject. The possibilities of the fiction section may be discovered readily by a little research into its shelves.

Any book which is not a general reference—such as Who's Who, World Almanac, Statesman's Year Book, etc., or books on the reserve shelf, may be taken out for a period of seven days by merely placing your name on the card which is in the pocket of the book and leave it with the librarian. Clippings, pamphlets and magazines are also provided for general use. This wonderful selection of books was chosen by a committee of teachers and authorities, from Wilson's standard catalogue of books, to fit the needs of a high school this size.

Those who have already visited the library do not find it fundamentally different from the public library, which they have been accustomed to.

It is the desire and hope of those who have made this beautiful library with all its books and fixtures a possibility, that the students will take such a pride in their new possession that it will look as fine at the end of the year as it does now.

Quiet and order must be preserved in the library, and as a punishment for those few who choose to conduct themselves in disorderly fashion their library privileges will be suspended for a period of two weeks or more.

Many of the students have become acquainted with the library and how to use it by Miss Corfield, the librarian, who took classes through one at a time, giving instructions and discussing parts of interest with the groups.

Although written permission has to be obtained the day before from Miss Corfield for the use of the library during school hours, anyone may come in at other times, and it is the expressed wish of the faculty and librarian that they do, for they want the library to play a growing part in student life and activities.

Seniors Given Short College Aptitude Tests

In preparation for the aptitude tests in March, the Seniors took a four-minute preliminary test last Wednesday morning during the twenty-minute period. This test was entirely based on vocabulary consisting of 30 words. The object was to choose the right word out of five which most nearly defined or explained one of the 30. The results were as follows:

Helen Sheets and George Irvine made perfect scores. 29 out of 30 the following had correct: Ray Wareing, Ellen Ylinen, Rose Johnson, Alice Nolan, and Dwight Curo. Luella Hill, Ralph Lukens, Arthur Van Walk, Lola Fox, Mardelle Cuningham, Fay Rosina, Marian Maghan, Loren Lovsted, George Fox, Stuart Patterson, and Kenneth Stimson scored 28 correct answers.

Seniors Retain Lead in Interclass Basketball

Interclass basketball under the able coaching of Mr. Melby and Mr. Taylor has progressed unusually well.

Last Friday some very good basketball talent was found when the Sophomores won their first game by defeating the Freshmen 10-1. The undefeated Seniors downed the Juniors 26-2 in a very one sided fray.

The standings at present are Seniors 1,000 percent; Juniors 500 percent; Sophomores 250 percent; and Freshmen 250 percent.

PAT'S PATTER

One Boy to Another.

Yoo hoo, Skinny C'mon out; I gotta tell yuh somep'n funny. Yuh shoulda seen the boys' jim today. Wy yuh wouldnta noed it. They waz girls an teechers an a fotygraffer there evertime I went to see Coach Dammon.

There was that lil ol Brainonian staff yuh heer so much about an seldom see hobnobbin it wid the orchestra, band, and Camp Fire girls. They had quite a jubilee, I herd. Who tol me? Wy my pal, Louie, tol me. Oh, yiah, she's bin a good pal o' mine ever since I interdooced her to me big brudder wot goes to the U. One uv her latest crushes, I gess, an wen Louie gets a crush she fall in a big way, now I'm tellin yuh.

Yuh no how fastidjus and finicky Eddie is? Well, he wuz all put out as to whut his hair loowed like an ast Millie Johnson (his lil chechmate) if it waz O. K. and she havin worries uv her own snaps him up in the tenshun with "No, it's wavy." Well he don't need to let her get him riled cuz it aint permanent.

Then L. sed Stewart Patterson had a awful time keepin his place next to Jean Cass cuz the fotygraffer didn't think it proper in public.

I com in about that time an got a squint at em. Boy that picsher shure ain't goin to be nothing to jump up and down and rattle yer false teeth over.

Mr. Penrose, the advizer, wuz on wun end an Miss Tornstrom (no classification needed) wuz on the other. Miss Tornstrom had to take off the specks (Naw, her glasses; spectacles, yuh nit) an it made her looz sum uv her dignity an she even smiled Wy her smile wuz so dazzlin the flashlights kep fizzlin out—too much competition.

Mr. Penrose on the other hand (Whose? I didn't say he wuz on anybodys, an I don't like all this interpretation). Well, he wuz akshully scairt to get his map focused cuz he sez its only his sixth time befor the camera. Gee! Such a selebritie. He shud go in fer the movies, shudn't he?

I almost got nocked down by Ray Wareing—He wuz stumblin all over himself an grinnin like a cheshire cat wots kinda smirk about somep'n an I began to look for the cause. Gess wot it wuz—Nope, yer as blind as everone else. It's Helen Sheets. She wuz in the picture an had a grin plastered all over her face as big as yer hand. (What's unusual? Aw I didn't say her face wuz that way, her smile, yuh Aspirin).

Janet Kampmann, the lil shrimp, had one uv er sofistocated looks on to show she wuz editor. She's gonna scratch her nose on the seelin some day.

Well, I gess I'll be goin. I gotta go see Bernice. Oh, she's my girl now since she put Carl in his place. Oh, didn't you heer about it? Yeah, she sings her "Mammy" songs quite a lot at clubs; yuh know how she pretends she's Al Jolson or Fannie Brice an shrinks yer heart-strings with her latest sob stuff—Well, she got him cornered one nite an wuz goin strong wen she suddenly felt a little apology wuz needed an sed, "Oh, this don't mean nothin."

Oh-Oh. Cully certainly radiated heat an everbody fairly hooted. Oh, Gee! There's Ma callin an there's battle in that voeci o' hers. Well, Bernice will haf to wait fer her lil heartbreaker till later.

Abessinia Samoa.

(I'll be seein yuh some more).

After School Classes to Help Weak Students

In order to assist backward students or Seniors with conditions in either Economics or in Shorthand II, two after school classes have been instigated by Miss Ruthe and Mr. Penrose.

Mr. Penrose's class meets on Thursday from 3:20 to 4 o'clock for all Economic students who have an average of 75 or below and for anymore students who wish to attend.

Miss Ruthe's class convenes on Tuesday from 3:20 to 4 o'clock and is made up of all Shorthand II students with an average of 80 or below and all other students who are unable to pass weekly transcription tests.

These classes will meet weekly until all conditions are made up.

A short business meeting of the Tri-Hi club was held Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. club rooms. Because the weatherman has not favored us with snow, the girls decided to give a different kind of a party than a sleigh-ride. This party is to be held Feb. 7. The nxet meeting will be a supper meeting, and supper will be served promptly at 6:15.

SHIP OF DREAMS

My ship of dreams is drifting out to sea,
And miles of water part my ship and me.
At dawn on opening wide my sleepy eyes
It sailed, so swanlike there against the skies.

But dusk is lowering scarlet tinted wings,
And down among the cliffs a night bird sings.
My ship is sailing—oh how far away;
I'm glad I called it mine for one sweet day.

RELIEF COMMITTEE TELLS WORK DONE

800 Cash Donations Received and Besides Many Gifts of Food, Clothing

THANK ALL ASSISTING

83 Families Aided in Clothing; Grocer and Fuel Orders Given 56 Homes

In a signed statement the executive committee of the Brainerd Community Relief Fund today made the following statement:

"The Brainerd Community Relief Fund committee acknowledges with thanks the generous support accorded their efforts in raising funds to take care of the needy families in our city this winter. Special recognition and thanks is herewith given to the block workers and their committees, numbering more than 100 of the ladies of our city, for the concentrated efforts and the work they did in making this drive a success. More than 800 cash contributions have been made and, in addition to these, many gifts of food, clothing, fuel and vegetables have been donated by individuals. Many of our merchants gave us credit at their stores for the various amount they wished to contribute. The Brainerd Daily Dispatch gave us wide publicity before and during our campaign and we are indebted to them for a gift of all the printing of the material used in making solicitations. The window cards are work of art and have drawn much admiring commendation and the pledge cards were well suited for the needs of this drive. (If we were to mention the names of all the contributors, this report would be too voluminous for publication; however, we want to especially mention contributions made by the Rotary club, the Lions club, the Red Cross society, St. Mary's Guild (Episcopal), St. Francis Guild (Catholic) and Association of Mechanical Supervisors, Northern Pacific railway.)

In rendering an account of our stewardship, let us say we have helped 83 families to clothing and shoes, and given grocer and fuel orders to 56 families. Each family will average six persons as there were from four to ten in each family we have helped. We have refused help to ten families. All of the potatoes and fresh vegetables and bedding collected during our campaign have been distributed but we still have some clothing and shoes that is being distributed when and where needed. Following the registration of the unemployed in this city, we have located positions for four women and helped several men to find work.

Our campaign developed a number of pledges, payable in installments over a period of four months. These pledges are being paid with a reasonable degree of promptness and it is hoped all those that have pledged on the monthly payment plan will meet their obligations ar rapidly as they come due in order not to hinder humanitarian work in which we are all interested. After these pledges are paid in full, a detailed financial report will be forthcoming.

Dr. J. A. Thabes, Sr., president, and his corps of officers and committee members who are acting as your servants and representatives in the collection and handling of this Relief Fund wish to publicly express their thanks for the support given the Brainerd Community Relief Fund for the bit that you each have put forth from the lowest amount to the largest donation which has collectively put yet another need of the city over the top.

CARELESS COUGHING IS SERIOUS MENACE

A nationwide campaign stressing the dangers of careless coughing is behind the advertising drive of Luden's, Incorporated, makers of Luden's Menthol Cough Drops, which, it is announced, will be larger this year than ever.

Luden's have made an extensive scientific investigation into the evils of careless coughing, which it has discovered is responsible for many ills, some of them serious. Its advertising lays particular emphasis on the effects of carcless coughing in the home and office and warns against the dangers of letting coughs and colds get the upper hand.

The theatres, motion picture houses, trolley cars and buses and public places where crowds gather are pointed out as places where coughs and colds are easily and quickly spread and where extra care is necessary to avoid contagion.

Monster Crabs

The giant crab of Japan is a so-called spider crab. About the largest known specimen has a spread or span between the tips of the outstretched claws of 11 feet 8 inches. The body proper is about 18 inches across.

EARLY DISPATCHER OF N. P. STRICKEN

Rites for August A. Green of Pillager Lake to be Held Here Thursday

August A. Green, 70, who was a train dispatcher at Brainerd for the Northern Pacific railway many years ago, passed away today at Pillager Lake where he operated a boat livery for tourists.

A member of the Brainerd Masonic order, Masons will conduct rites for him here Thursday afternoon.

At one time Mr. Green operated the Ransford refreshment parlor. He was unmarried.

Brophy, Missing Aviator, Reported Safe at Hunghsai

Shanghai, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Dispatches received here today said that G. W. Brophy, missing aviator, was safe at Hunghsai.

It was believed that he became lost in a snow storm, while flying from Foochow to Canton. He was long overdue at the latter city.

Brophy was on a lap of his proposed flight from Shanghai to Manila when he disappeared.

Mrs. Eugene Doucette Dies at Little Falls

Mrs. Eugene Doucette, 34, of Little Falls, formerly of Ripley township and Belle Prairie, and well known in Brainerd, passed away yesterday morning at St. Gabriel's hospital, Little Falls.

Surviving are the husband and five children, Lester, Rosalie, Clarence, Florence and Norman one week old, two sisters, Mrs. Verne Carlson and Mrs. Harold Wilkes of Minneapolis and five brothers, George, Gilbert, Dave, Jules and Charles St. Onge. Her father, Jules St. Onge also survives.

Funeral arrangements have not as yet been completed.

Foshay Tower Again on Sale Today with No Bidders in Evidence

Minneapolis, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—The Foshay tower, highest office building in the northwest, went on sale today with no bidders willing to buy it.

Repeated efforts in the past have been made to auction the 32-story structure to raise funds to pay for the mortgages against the tower. It was reported today that no bidders would offer a price and that the auction would be postponed until March 24.

WALKER, RISKO TO FIGHT IN MIAMI FEB. 24

"GARDEN" HAS RENOUNCED ALL CLAIMS TO SHOW

"PA" STRIBLING DECLARED BY SOME TO BE THE STRAW PROMOTER

EXTRA ATTRACTIONS INCLUDE W. L. "YOUNG" STRIBLING AND MAX SCHMELING

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Jan. 27.—Competition being the life of trade, not to mention the old one about elephants never forgetting, Mickey Walker and Johnny Risko will meet in Miami on Feb. 24, just one week before Frank Bruen presents Primo Carnera and Jimmy Maloney to the sun-tanned natives.

Bruen, one-time general manager of Madison Square Garden, announced his extravaganza several weeks ago; the Walker-Risko opposition thing was announced only yesterday with "Pa" Stribling as the straw promoter. By straw promoter we mean that many of the boys and girls are convinced that "Pa" is nothing more than a front for the Garden in an attempt to put the chill on an old employer's show.

The Garden has renounced all claim to the show, pointing out that Walker is suspended in this state and to deal with Walker would lead to all sorts of complications with the New York boxing commission. The Garden did admit, however, that its Miami stadium had been leased to the elder Stribling for his show. Stribling, in turn, probably will rent it to Bruen.

"Pa's" show will be much more than just a meeting between the middleweight king and the Cleveland baker boy.

Two of the extra attractions will be the personal appearance of W. L. "Young" Stribling and Max Schmeling. W. L. and Max each will box several rounds with a sparring partner.

Schmeling, by the way, is scheduled to arrive today on the liner Europa. The Europa is scheduled to dock at 6 P. M. and Joe Jacobs, manager of the champion, will head the receiving line. Max will be accompanied by Max Machon, his trainer.

Maxie will remain here until time for his departure on the barnstorming tour that will carry him into some 58 cities and villages. He will rest for two weeks following the conclusion of his tour and then start work for his title fight with Stribling in June.

Jacobs will not select a training site until the place of battle has been definitely decided upon.

EVANGELICALS PREPARE TO EVEN TERMS AFTER 26-15 DEFEAT

The Evangelicals looked forward today to the game next Tuesday evening here with Backus to avenge their defeat last Saturday night at the latter's floor by the score of 26 to 15.

The Blue Streaks held the lead over the Brainerd Sunday School cagers throughout the game, the score 11 to 9 indicating that the Brainerd team held their opponents on better terms in the first half than the last.

On Friday evening the Evangelicals will journey to Riverton to meet the high school team there.

Saturday night's box score follows:

DECIDING HOLD DEFEATING THE FORMER FOOTBALL PLAYER WAS FULL NELSON

DICK SHIKAT WINS OVER WRESTLER FROM INDIA IN 8:41

New York, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—What was claimed to have been a record crowd at Madison Square Garden last night saw Jim Londos, "Greek Adonis," successfully defend his claim to the world's heavyweight wrestling championship in an engagement with Jim McMillen, former U. of Illinois football player.

The bout ended after 56 minutes and 54 seconds of rolling, grappling, grunting and groaning. The deciding hold was a full Nelson. Londos weighed 200, and McMillen 216.

The attendance was announced officially as 22,200. The receipts were $59,496.50. The crowd was nearly four times as large as the one at the week's feature boxing bout last Friday when about 6,000 attended. Thousands were denied admission last night.

Dick Shikat, 215, won over Hfagoor Khan of India, 205, in 8:41.

Rudy Dusek, Omaha, Neb., 213, defeated Ivan Vatkuroff, 212, in 10:52.

TONY CANZONERI FIGHTS HESS AT CHICAGO FEB. 4

Chicago, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Lightweight champion Tony Canzoneri of New York will make his first Chicago appearance since he won the world's title, in a 10-round bout with Goldie Hess of California at Chicago stadium, Feb. 4.

Canzoneri's title will not be at stake, Hess agreeing to weigh not less than 135½ nor more than 137 pounds.

Hess lost to Junior Welterweight Champion Jack Berg in a spectacular and hotly contested championship battle at the stadium last week. He has been defeated by Canzoneri, dropping a close 10-round decision at New York last summer before Tony won his title.

RANGERS LOSE 3-1 TO ST. CLOUD SIX

Crosby-Ironton took its second defeat of the season at the hands of the St. Cloud Lions club puck chasers on Sunday afternoon at St. Cloud. The score was 3 to 1.

Bloom was the outstanding player for the rangers. His spectacular rushes, stick handling and defense tactics gave the fans many thrills.

Observing Rainbows

The rainbow may appear to be of varying size. It is always seen along the circumference of a circle whose center is on a straight line with the eye of the observer, hence no two persons see strictly the same bow. The width of the colored bands increases as the size of the raindrops decreases.

Why the Apostrophe?

The apostrophes in our ordinary possessive case—as in "Robert's book"—is a relic of "his." Once people said, "Robert his book," which finally wore down to "Robert's book," the apostrophe standing for the letters left out.—Woman's Home Companion.

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin

You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.

Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear in your face, skin grows sallow and muddy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles will end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor upset stomach. Just a teaspoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress. And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much keener your appetite is—watch how quickly skin begins to grow free of disfiguring eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Among Curley's Sport Curios

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FEW entrepreneurs, managers, exploitation experts, press agents or whatever you care to term those who direct the public careers of others, have had such a variegated array of distinguished clients as Jack Curley, somewhat flippantly called "Jacques" by those who know him best as America's biggest and most persistent wrestling impresario. Years ago Jacques directed lecture tours for such illustrious idealists as William Jennings Bryan, Sylvia Pankhurst, and others. Today, as the "Rickard of Rasslin," he guides the flying mares of destiny for Champion Jim Londos and a host of other grimacing torso-twisters. And also, as a "Tycoon of Tennis," he is planning a tour for the newly-turned pro. Bill Tilden, the incomparable Karel Kozeluh, and the dashing Vinnie Richards.

Wrestling is enjoying an amazing revival in New York (you'd think Carnera was fighting that night a few weeks ago when the mob broke down the doors storming for admission to the crowded Garden). It seems that every Greek in the metropolis regards Londos as the Italians do Primo. They all but move their restaurants into any hall in which their modern Hercules tosses the Argentines, Portuguese, American college products and other strenuous nationals.

Tonight Jim McMillin, who used to play football with "Red" Grange at Illinois, will try to throw Londos off his throne. If you're in the Garden you'll realize that the Greeks have more than a word for it, Londos, and rasslin'.

Meanwhile Tilden and Kozeluh are in the pink for a long series of championship matches while on tour. "They are class," philosophizes Monsieur Jacques, "but wrestling is my favorite sport. Its antiquity, its piquant foreign flavor, its physical finesse—ah, tennis is class but the grappling art is classic!" To all of which, Gene Fowler, the novelist; "Bugs" Baer and a large Graeco-Roman populace whisper, murmer, grunt or shout a salvo of amens!!

Hess lost to Junior Welterweight Champion Jack Berg in a spectacular and hotly contested championship battle at the stadium last week. He has been defeated by Canzoneri, dropping a close 10-round decision at New York last summer before Tony won his title.

GAINED 9 POUNDS; LIKE NEW WOMAN

"I used to wake up in the night in terror. The gas pressing against my heart would make me think I was smothering to death. But that trouble has gone now and so are the other things that bothered me—indigestion, headaches and constipation.

MRS. C. E. BRADLEY

"Thanks to Sargon, I am now free of all these troubles and have gained nine pounds. I am like a new woman." — Mrs. Cordelia E. Bradley, 3110 East 10th St., Kansas City, Mo.

Sargon often triumphs in stubborn cases when many other medicines and treatments have failed. Times without number men and women have rejoiced in new-found health through its use — That's why it is called the medicine with a million friends.

E. M. B. A. CHANCES FOR LEAD SMASHED

ALDERMAN-MAGHAN CO. TAKES THEM FOR TWO; BYES WIN TWO FROM PETERSON'S

Alderman-Maghan squelched the E. M. B. A.'s chances of entering first place by winning from the latter two games at Van's alleys last evening. DeRocher was high with 586. Cameron hit 584.

The Byes took two games from Peterson's, losing the second game by five pins.

Tonight the Study Club meets the All Stars and Lively Auto clashes with Schmity's.

RANGERS LOSE 3-1 TO ST. CLOUD SIX

Crosby-Ironton took its second defeat of the season at the hands of the St. Cloud Lions club puck chasers on Sunday afternoon at St. Cloud. The score was 3 to 1.

Bloom was the outstanding player for the rangers. His spectacular rushes, stick handling and defense tactics gave the fans many thrills.

Observing Rainbows

The rainbow may appear to be of varying size. It is always seen along the circumference of a circle whose center is on a straight line with the eye of the observer, hence no two persons see strictly the same bow. The width of the colored bands increases as the size of the raindrops decreases.

Why the Apostrophe?

The apostrophes in our ordinary possessive case—as in "Robert's book"—is a relic of "his." Once people said, "Robert his book," which finally wore down to "Robert's book," the apostrophe standing for the letters left out.—Woman's Home Companion.

Gentle Reminder

Aren't birthdays that come after forty bad enough, without the long-life greeting cards you get from your insurance companies?—Kansas City Star.

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin

You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.

Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear in your face, skin grows sallow and muddy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles will end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor upset stomach. Just a teaspoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress. And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much keener your appetite is—watch how quickly skin begins to grow free of disfiguring eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Among Curley's Sport Curios

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FEW entrepreneurs, managers, exploitation experts, press agents or whatever you care to term those who direct the public careers of others, have had such a variegated array of distinguished clients as Jack Curley, somewhat flippantly called "Jacques" by those who know him best as America's biggest and most persistent wrestling impresario. Years ago Jacques directed lecture tours for such illustrious idealists as William Jennings Bryan, Sylvia Pankhurst, and others. Today, as the "Rickard of Rasslin," he guides the flying mares of destiny for Champion Jim Londos and a host of other grimacing torso-twisters.

And also, as a "Tycoon of Tennis," he is planning a tour for the newly-turned pro. Bill Tilden, the incomparable Karel Kozeluh, and the dashing Vinnie Richards.

Wrestling is enjoying an amazing revival in New York (you'd think Carnera was fighting that night a few weeks ago when the mob broke down the doors storming for admission to the crowded Garden). It seems that every Greek in the metropolis regards Londos as the Italians do Primo. They all but move their restaurants into any hall in which their modern Hercules tosses the Argentines, Portuguese, American college products and other strenuous nationals.

Tonight Jim McMillin, who used to play football with "Red" Grange at Illinois, will try to throw Londos off his throne. If you're in the Garden you'll realize that the Greeks have more than a word for it, Londos, and rasslin'.

Meanwhile Tilden and Kozeluh are in the pink for a long series of championship matches while on tour. "They are class," philosophizes Monsieur Jacques, "but wrestling is my favorite sport. Its antiquity, its piquant foreign flavor, its physical finesse—ah, tennis is class but the grappling art is classic!" To all of which, Gene Fowler, the novelist; "Bugs" Baer and a large Graeco-Roman populace whisper, murmer, grunt or shout a salvo of amens!!
